COUNTY SHORT $343,600 IN E BOND SALES

War Bond sales in the Fifth War Bond campaign in Adams county at the close of business on Saturday totaled $540,400, an oversubscription of $92,000, the largest "over-the-top" figure yet recorded in bond drives in this county.

The figures were announced this morning but are not considered as the final report for sales made on Saturday. "There are usually some late reports of sales made on the last day and we do not expect to have the official figures for several days at least," one war finance committee observer said.

The sale of "E" bonds is far behind schedule and far from the quota of $650,000. Total sales reported thus far are $306,400 which is more than $343,600 short of the quota.

Sales of other bonds to individuals totaled $366,500. This, too, is short of the quota of $902,000. While the final day for sales in this county was Saturday additional figures may boost the grand total after a final summation is made.

The drive will continue through July 31st and sales will be credited against the county quota.

Edmund W. Thomas, county chairman, said today he "hoped the buyers of 'E' bonds would come forward to boost this category into the over-the-top bracket. This is the one big item that we are anxious to put across."

While no appointment has been made as yet to the price panel to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation, Miss Marian Biggs, Orrtanna, has been appointed as an assistant to the price panel to represent the Fairfield-Orrtanna section.

The board also announced today the appointment of Miss Jane Wolff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. WARNS COURTS WON'T SHIELD MEN FROM ARMY

The Adams county courts cannot be used as a means of evading induction into the armed forces, Judge W. C. Sheely declared emphatically Saturday as he suggested that John H. Smith, Jr., Hanover, R. 3, volunteer immediately for the armed forces or face court sentence in August.

Smith was accused by the court of using a court parole order to keep out of the army. It was charged that he stopped making payments on a $400 debt to his father, one condition of the parole, so that he would remain under the jurisdiction of the court and thus evade induction. Smith told the court he had tried to volunteer but that "somebody stopped it."

Smith's court record shows that he was arraigned in April court in 1943 on two charges of forgery involving checks totaling $203 and that he was sentenced to serve six months in jail. He served 60 days and was paroled on condition that he repay his father for the sums the latter had to lay out to compensate those who lost money by paying Smith's forgeries.

Now Free to Enlist

In court Saturday young Smith admitted he has paid his father only about $80. His father was in court and agreed with Judge Sheely that military service is the best thing for his son. The parole order has been dismissed so that he is now free to enlist.

Charles Hartlaub, 23, Hanover, R. 1, Adams county, and John M. Arentz, Jr., 19, Hanover, R. 1, York county, were sentenced to White Hill school for boys on charges of burglary to which they had pleaded guilty. They admitted robbing the service station of William Eckenrode in Union township of cigarettes, ration stamps and cash after breaking into it on a night on which they had previously burglarized a Pennville service station in York county.

Mrs. Marie Bowers Arter, Littlestown, who had pleaded guilty to receiving some of the stolen cigarettes and cash, was placed on probation for two years on condition of good behavior. She was allowed three months in which to pay the costs of her case.

Driver Gets 30 Days

Thomas Kimmel, Dover, R. 3, was sent to jail for 30 days on a drunk-and-driving charge on which he had pleaded guilty. The sentence is to date from the time of his arrest, July 1, by Pvt. George Ackerson of the state police. Kimmel told the court he had left a harvest field that afternoon to drive to York where he had some drinks and agreed to haul a soldier to Chambersburg as a favor. On the way home he was nabbed in Franklin township.

After a court hearing Merrill Coffman, Hamilton township, was found not guilty on a charge of larceny of several chickens from L. D. Kauffman, Franklin county. The court ordered the prosecutor to pay the costs.

W. M. RAILROAD EXONERATED IN MYERS' DEATH

That Charles Raymond Myers, 61, of Iron Springs, was trespassing on railroad property and that the accident which caused his death at 11:55 a. m. July 1, was unavoidable as far as the railroad company and train crew were concerned was decided Saturday afternoon by a coroner's jury following an inquest held by Coroner S. D. Shugart in Chambersburg.

Myers came to his death, the verdict said, as the result of injuries he received when struck by a locomotive of the Western Maryland Railway Company of which E. F. Selby of Hagerstown was engineer. "We believe, first," said the jury, "that Charles Myers was trespassing on the premises of the Western Maryland Railway Co. at the time of his death, and secondly, we believe that it was an unavoidable accident and do therefore exonerate the Western Maryland Railway Co. and train crew."

Saw Object On Track

G. W. Warrenfeltz, Funkstown, Md., fireman on the locomotive testified his attention was called by Paul Arnold, Baltimore, an employee of the W. M. R. Co., who was riding in the engine, to an object on the track as the locomotive rounded a sharp curve.

Lt. E. J. Chapman, Hagerstown, of the W. M. R. Co., had previously testified that the accident had happened between Monterey and Chambersburg, about one-fourth of a mile west of Chambersburg, and at a point where a 49-foot embankment, covered with heavy underbrush would have obscured the vision of the train crew for a distance of 300 feet.

The 30-car loaded freight train was descending a steep grade. Chapman said that the train dragged portions of Myers' body for 425 feet and that his body was still caught (Please Turn to Page 3)

NAZI PRISONERS STILL AT LARGE

So far as news is concerned relative to the whereabouts of the two German prisoners who escaped from the nearby war prisoners' camp sometime during the early morning hours of July 3 it is a case of "dead end."

No new clues were reported over the week-end by any of the agencies participating in the two-state man hunt.

The FBI offices in Philadelphia this morning told The Gettysburg Times "We haven't a thing we can give you. We are still working on the case but we have no new developments."

A wide variety of rumors were harvested over the week-end and they included: In Baltimore, one captured at Rock Chapel, near York Springs, returned to camp.

The crowd filled every available space in the auditorium, occupied all the standing room space in the rear of the church and overflowed into the front vestibule.

The services were preceded by a procession which included:

Three altar boys carrying a large crucifix and candle sticks; an American Legion color guard comprising Commander Paul Spangler, Lawrence Sheads and Joseph Smith, veterans of the first World War; and Joseph McKeandrick, who served in the present war, all members of the Albert J. Rev. Fr. Stock then read special prayers and Sergeant William L. Baldwin sounded "Taps" from the choir balcony. Richard Codori and Helen Cole of the Scouts then unveiled the Honor Roll, folded the huge American flag which had covered it and laid it over the communion rail. Then the choir sang "Veni Creator."

Father Stock delivered a brief sermon in which he declared that a "good American is one who is a Christian citizen, serves his God and then his country, and who responds to every call of his country." He declared that there will be wars so long as there is sin in the world. He urged his audience to obey the laws of the land.

Bless Honor Roll

Then followed the solemn blessing of the Honor Roll by Father Stock, a member of the local Legion post who served as a Chaplain overseas in the first World War.

Miss Marie Robinson sang "Ave Maria" by Norman.

Between the singing of "O Salutaris" and "Tantum Ergo" there was a three minute pause for silent prayers during the benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

The audience sang one verse of "Holy God, We Praise Thy Name" and one verse of "God Bless America."

The Honor Roll will remain on the altar of the Blessed Virgin, under whose care the parishioners in service have been placed, until Victory. Covering a large white background around the plaque are small American flags, one for each parishioner in service.

Allies Press Ahead Along Many Sectors

London, July 10 (AP)—The German radio said tonight that the Americans had captured Sainteny on the Carentan-Periers road in the Cherbourg peninsula.

By WES GALLAGHER

Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, July 10 (AP)—The British Second Army struck a hard blow eastward on a three-mile front at the Germans' right flank three miles south of newly-occupied Caen today, capturing Eterville in short order and advancing to within less than a mile of the river Orne.

Field dispatches described the attack as a typical flanking jab by Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery.

It was made while the bulk of the main German forces were engaged by British sweeping through the ruins of Caen toward the suburb of Faub de Vaucelles, where the Germans were making a stand.

Open Thunderous Artillery Barrage

In the first two and a half hours of the new attack south and east of the Odon river the British overran Key Hill 112, three quarters of a mile north of Esquay on the road to Caen, as well as Eterville, three miles southwest of Caen on the same road.

The new attack, flung with a thunderous artillery barrage at 5 a. m., came just 15 hours after British and Canadian forces had taken Caen, 120 miles from Paris, and opened the way to a favorable flat battleground on the plain of Caen south of the port of Falaise.

On the western end of the line American forces matched the British offensive with a drive that made progress in all sectors following the capture of La Haya du Puits, bitterly defended German stronghold.

Germans Suffer "Severe Reverse"

Field dispatches assaying the extent of the British-Canadian victory at Caen said the German 12th S S Panzer Division and a field division had been badly mauled in trying to hold the town. The 12th Panzers were reported whittled to 45 per cent of their normal strength, a loss of perhaps 5,500 men.

The town of Caen was so badly battered the British had to bring up bulldozers to push the rubble aside because vehicles could not get within 500 yards of the river.

"The Germans have suffered a severe reverse," the supreme command asserted in commenting on the capture of Caen, stubborn bastion on the eastern wing of the bridgehead front, but hastened to add:

"They have not yet suffered a major defeat in the field."

BULLETINS

New York, July 10 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower predicted "long and bitter fighting before final victory," a pooled broadcast from his supreme headquarters said today.

Merrill Mueller, NBC reporter at Eisenhower's headquarters, said Eisenhower warned against growing optimism over the progress of Allied armies in Europe.

Strained Defense

The Germans' whole Normandy front was described as in "a state of strain" today.

Gen. Omar N. Bradley's American First Army advanced an average of a mile along many parts of the Cherbourg peninsula front. In the St. Jean de Daye sector it captured Caveny, three miles southeast of St. Jean, and also Le Desert, two miles southwest.

"In this fighting American troops occupied the reverse position that the British did in the capture of Cherbourg," the supreme command explained.

"They tied up many German divisions while the British and Canadians attacked Caen. Just as the capture of Cherbourg would have been impossible without British help in the east, so the capture of Caen would have been impossible without American help in the west."

Allies On The Move

Today Allied troops were on the move everywhere along the Normandy front except in the sector from St. Lo to Caumont. German lines were being bulged to the bursting point.

Field reports to the supreme command early today placed the British and Canadians in possession of all Caen north of the river, although pockets of resistance held out at several points. These were being cleaned up and a steady stream of prisoners was being taken.

"Reports received indicate the enemy has suffered heavy casualties" in the Caen operation, the supreme command said today in Communiqué No. 63.

COUNTY SHORT $343,600 IN E BOND SALES

War Bond sales in the Fifth War Bond campaign in Adams county at the close of business on Saturday totaled $3,401,400, an oversubscription of $602,400, the largest "over the top" figure yet recorded in bond drives in this county.

The figures were announced this morning but are not considered as the final report for sales made on Saturday. "There are usually some late reports of sales made on the last day and we do not expect to have the official figures for several days at least," one war finance committee observer said.

The sale of "E" bonds is far behind schedule and far from the quota of $650,000. Total sales reported thus far are $306,400 which is more than $340,000 short of the quota.

Expect More Reports

Sales of other bonds to individuals totaled $856,500. This, too, is short of the quota of $902,000. While the final day for sales in this category was Saturday additional figures may boost the grand total after a final summation is made.

The drive will continue through July 31st and sales will be credited against the county quota.

Edmund W. Thomas, county chairman, said today he "hoped the buyers of "E" bonds would come forward to boost this category into the over-the-top bracket. This is the one big item that we are anxious to put across."

WARNS COURTS WON'T SHIELD MEN FROM ARMY

The Adams county courts cannot be used as a means of evading induction into the armed forces, Judge W. C. Sheely declared emphatically Saturday as he suggested that John H. Smith, Jr., Hanover R. 3, volunteer immediately for the armed forces or face court sentence in August.

Smith was accused by the court of using a court parole order to keep out of the army. It was charged that he stopped making payments on a $400 debt to his father, one condition of the parole, so that he would remain under the jurisdiction of the court and thus evade induction. Smith told the court he had tried to volunteer but that "somebody stopped it."

Smith's court record shows that he was arraigned in April court in 1943 on two charges of forgery involving checks totaling $200 and that he was sentenced to serve six months in jail. He served 60 days and was paroled on condition that he repay his father for the sums the latter had to lay out to compensate those who lost money by young Smith's forgeries.

Now Free to Enlist

In court Saturday young Smith admitted he has paid his father only about $80. His father was in court and agreed with Judge Sheely that military service is the best thing for his son. The parole order has been dismissed so that he is now free to enlist.

Charles Hartlaub, 23, Hanover R. 1, Adams county, and John M. Arentz, Jr., 19, Hanover R. 1, York county, were sentenced to White Hill school for boys on charges of burglary to which they had pleaded guilty. They admitted robbing the service station of William Eckenrode in Union township of cigarettes, ration stamps and cash after breaking into it on a night on which they had previously burglarized a Pennville service station in York county.

Mrs. Marie Bowers Arter, Littlestown, who had pleaded guilty to receiving some of the stolen cigarettes and cash, was placed on probation for two years on condition of good behavior. She was allowed three months in which to pay the costs of her case.

Driver Gets 30 Days

Thomas Kimmel, Dover R. 3, was sent to jail for 30 days on a drunk-and-driving charge on which he had pleaded guilty. The sentence is to date from the time of his arrest, July 1, by Pvt. George Ackerson of the state police. Kimmel told the court he had left a harvest field that afternoon to drive to York where he had some drinks and agreed to haul a soldier to Chambersburg as a favor. On the way home he was nabbed in Franklin township.

After a court hearing Mervil Coffman, Hamilton township, was found not guilty on a charge of larceny of several chickens from L. D. Kauffman, Franklin county. The court ordered the prosecutor to pay the costs.

More than 200 persons attended the song service on the lawn at the rear of Zion Lutheran church, Fairfield, Sunday evening.

A chorus of Jamaicans, here to assist in the harvest of fruit, sang several selections. Several spoke briefly and others led in prayers. There was a cornet duet by the two Benner children.

Rev. Harry S. Ecker, pastor of the Lower Marsh Creek Presbyterian church, spoke on the theme "Christ Is The Answer."

Sgt. Rider, 21 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen P. Rider, has taken part in six combat missions. A 1941 graduate of Gettysburg high school, he was an aircraft mechanic at Olmsted Field, Middletown, before entering the army February 1, 1943.

W. M. RAILROAD EXONERATED IN MYERS' DEATH

That Charles Raymond Myers, 61, of Iron Springs, was trespassing on railroad property and that the accident which caused his death at 11:55 a. m., July 1, was unavoidable as far as the railroad company and train crew were concerned was decided Saturday afternoon by a coroner's jury following an inquest, held by Coroner S. D. Shull in Chambersburg.

Myers came to his death, the verdict said, as the result of injuries he received when struck by a locomotive of the Western Maryland Railway Company of which E. F. Selby of Hagerstown was engineer. "We believe, first," said the jury, "that Charles Myers was trespassing on the premises of the Western Maryland Railway Co. at the time of his death, and secondly, we believe that it was an unavoidable accident and do therefore exonerate the Western Maryland Railway Co. and train crew."

Saw Object On Track

G. W. Warrenfeltz, Funkstown, Md., fireman on the locomotive, testified his attention was called by Paul Arnold, Baltimore, an employee of the W. M. R. R. Co., who was riding in the engine, to an object on the track as the locomotive rounded a sharp curve.

Lt. E. J. Chapman, Hagerstown, of the W. M. R. R. police, had previously testified that the accident had happened between Monterey and Charmain, about one-fourth of a mile west of Charmain crossing, and at a point where a 40-foot embankment, covered with heavy underbrush would have obscured the vision of the train crew for a distance of 330 feet.

The 30-car loaded freight train was descending a steep grade, Chapman said that the train dragged portions of Myers' body for 425 feet and that his body was still caught (Please Turn to Page 3)

NAZI PRISONERS STILL AT LARGE

So far as news is concerned relative to the whereabouts of the two German prisoners who escaped from the nearby war prisoners' camp sometime during the early morning hours of July 3, it is a case of "dead end."

No new clues were reported over the week-end by any of the agencies participating in the two-state man hunt.

The FBI offices in Philadelphia this morning told The Gettysburg Times "We haven't a thing we can give you. We are still working on the case but we have no new developments."

A wide variety of rumors were harvested over the week-end. They included:

Surrendered in Baltimore; one captured at Rock Chapel, near York Springs; returned to camp.

HONOR ROLL OF XAVIER CHURCH IS DEDICATED SUNDAY EVENING

St. Francis Xavier's Catholic church was jammed to overflowing Sunday evening for the blessing and dedication of the parish Honor Roll containing the names of 171 men and women serving in the armed forces.

The crowd filled every available pew in the auditorium, occupied all the standing room space in the rear of the church and overflowed into the front vestibule.

The services were preceded by a procession which included:

Three altar boys carrying a large crucifix and candle sticks; an American Legion color guard comprising Commander Paul Spangler, Lawrence Sheeds and Joseph Smith, veterans of the first World War and Joseph McKendrick, who served in the present war, all members of the Albert J. Lentz Post, No. 202; two Girl Scouts and two Boy Scouts; the Holy Name society; the National Council of Catholic Women's unit; the Pennsylvania Catholic Beneficial League unit; parochial school boys and girls, dressed in white; altar boys and Rev. Fr. Mark E. Stock and Rev. Fr. Joseph G. Wald, of Fairfield.

"Taps" Sounded

The Legion and Holy Name standards were placed at the right front of the church.

The choir sang "Domine Saluum Fac Populum" by McDonough.

Rev. Fr. Stock then read special prayers and Sergeant William L. Baldwin sounded "Taps" from the choir balcony. Richard Codori and Helen Cole of the Scouts then unveiled the Honor Roll, folded the huge American flag which had covered it and laid it over the communion rail. Then the choir sang "Veni Creator."

Father Stock delivered a brief sermon in which he declared that a "good American is one who is a Christian citizen, serves his God and then his country, and who responds to every call of his country." He declared that there will be wars so long as there is sin in the world. He urged his audience to obey the laws of the land.

Bless Honor Roll

Then followed the solemn blessing of the Honor Roll by Father Stock, a member of the local Legion post who served as a Chaplain overseas in the first World War.

Miss Marie Robinson sang "Ave Maria" by Korman.

Between the singing of "O Salutaris" and "Tantum Ergo" there was a three minute pause for silent prayers during the benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

The audience sang one verse of "Holy God, We Praise Thy Name" and one verse of "God Bless America."

The Honor Roll will remain on the altar of the Blessed Virgin, under whose care the parishioners in service have been placed, until Victory. Covering a large white background around the plaque are small American flags, one for each parishioner in service.

The opponent kicked Hardman once, breaking his ankle, and the fight was over, the police said.

Allies Press Ahead Along Many Sectors

London, July 10 (AP)—The German radio said tonight that the Americans had captured Sainteny on the Cherbourg peninsula.

By WES GALLAGHER

Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Force, July 10 (AP)—The British Second Army struck a hard blow eastward on a three-mile front at the Germans' right flank three miles south of newly-occupied Caen today, capturing Eterville in short order and advancing to within less than a mile of the river Orne.

Field dispatches described the attack as a typical flanking jab by Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery.

It was made while the bulk of the main German forces were engaged by British sweeping through the ruins of Caen toward the suburb of Faub de Vaucelles, where the Germans were making a stand.

Open Thunderous Artillery Barrage

In the first two and a half hours of the new attack south and east of the Odon river the British overran Key Hill 112, three quarters of a mile north of Esquay on the road to Caen, as well as Eterville, three miles southwest of Caen on the same road.

The new attack, flung with a thunderous artillery barrage at 5 a. m., came just 15 hours after British and Canadian forces had taken Caen, 120 miles from Paris, and opened the way to a favorable flat battleground on the plain of Caen south of the port of Falice.

On the western end of the line American forces matched the British offensive with a drive that made progress in all sectors following the capture of La Haya du Puits, bitterly defended German stronghold.

Germans Suffer "Severe Reverse"

Field dispatches assaying the extent of the British-Canadian victory at Caen said the German 12th S S Panzer Division and a field division had been badly mauled in trying to hold the town. The 12th Panzers were reported whittled to 45 per cent of their normal strength, a loss of perhaps 5,500 men.

The town of Caen was so badly battered the British had to bring up bulldozers to push the rubble aside because vehicles could not get within 500 yards of the river.

"The Germans have suffered a severe reverse," the supreme command asserted in commenting on the capture of Caen, stubborn bastion on the eastern wing of the bridgehead front, but hastened to add:

"They have not yet suffered a major defeat in the field."

BULLETINS

New York, July 10 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower predicted "long and bitter fighting before final victory," a pooled broadcast from his supreme headquarters said today.

Merrill Mueller, NBC reporter at Eisenhower's headquarters, said Eisenhower warned against growing optimism over the progress of Allied armies in Europe.

London, July 10 (AP)—The British press said tonight that the Russians had advanced to a point within 60 miles of East Prussia.

Harrisburg, July 10 (AP)—Daniel P. Wolley, regional OPA administrator, today announced filing of administrative charges for removal against W. Frank Snyder, Scranton District OPA director, and five other key officials of the Scranton office.

East Lansing, July 10 (AP)—The Michigan State college football team will play Carnegie Tech here Nov. 18, for the first time since 1937 Athletic Director Ralph H. Young announced today. The Spartans have beaten Carnegie three times in four previous meetings. The fourth was a scoreless tie.

BOY SCOUTS CAMP

Blaine Wildasin, Herbert Hoke, Robert Leib, William Hollinger, Robert Orndorff, Harvey Moul, George Butt, Charles Saunders, Abbotstown boy scouts, camped in the Pigeon hills over the week-end. Saturday night they served refreshments to their parents.

HOME ON FURLOUGH

Four Abbotstown boys who received their boot training at Camp Peary, Virginia, were home on furlough last week. They were Wilmer Rodgers, Stuart Wagner, Ralph Nelson and Fred Bankert.

Field reports to the supreme command early today placed the British and Canadians in possession of all Caen north of the river, although pockets of resistance held out at several points. These were being cleaned up and a steady stream of prisoners was being taken.

"Reports received indicate the enemy has suffered heavy casualties" in the Caen operation, the supreme command said today in Communiqué No. 69.

DIVORCE LAWS ARE TIGHTENED FOR RUSSIANS

preme Soviet has issued a sweeping decree to strengthen family life by making divorces more difficult to obtain and by granting increased financial aid for large families.

Causing a sensation throughout Russia, the decree made divorces as hard or harder to obtain in the Soviet Union than in some parts of the United States, and provided for payment ranging up to a lump sum of 5,000 rubles, or about $950, at birth of an 11th child, plus a monthly payment of 300 rubles, or $57.

The decree, already in effect, created new honors for mothers—the highest "mother heroine" for women rearing 10 or more children; revised family taxes to encourage more children, tightened laws against abortionists, liberalized aid for pregnancy and ordered increased provision of baby clothes.

Simple Divorces End

State aid begins with a grant of 400 rubles—75 at the nominal exchange rate of 19 cents in U. S.

Under the new decree both parties must file a petition in court and appear personally before a People's court, which will hear all the evidence and attempt a reconciliation. If this is believed impossible, the petition can be carried to a higher the petitioner may range from 500 to 2,000 rubles ($95 to $380). How long such a procedure will take was not indicated, but it would appear that considerable time would be needed.

The decree enacted new taxes for couples with fewer than three children. Childless citizens must pay

PAST WEEK IS GRATIFYING FOR ALLIED EFFORTS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(Associated Press War Analyst)

This has been a gratifying week-end for Allied arms the world around, with substantial victories recorded in Normandy and Russia, and American completion of the bloody conquest of the strategic island of Saipan in the central Pacific.

The Allies have made important progress in Normandy. They finally have ripped the German battle-line loose from its bitterly defended anchors at both ends. The Canadians and British took the ancient city of Caen on the Nazi eastern flank after 35 days of hell, while the Americans captured La Haye Du Puits on the western wing in the face of stubborn resistance.

"Serious Reverse"

The fall of Caen is of particular importance because this inland port and railway center was the key point of the German defense of the peninsula. Had we been able to take this stronghold early in the invasion, it would have made a great difference in our progress in breaking into the French Hinterland—progress which the Allied command had hoped would be much further ahead than it is now.

However, Supreme Allied Headquarters cautions us not to regard the victory at Caen as a major defeat of the Germans in the field, although it is a "serious reverse." The significance of the capture of Caen and La Haye Du Puits is that it paves the way for the decisive battle which we must win before we can free the peninsula of the enemy and thereby enable our forces to reach the open roads to Paris and Berlin. This great clash may be expected soon.

While the invasion of Normandy has struck some very sticky going thus far, things are rounding up so that the wheels should turn much faster from now on. Once the great port of Cherbourg is repaired—and its restoration has been a titanic engineering job—the Allies will be able to pour into the peninsula a flood of men and equipment which the Germans cannot withstand.

Major Victory In Pacific

Over on the eastern front the Great Russian offensive was surging forward with a speed and force which threatened to produce a collapse of the German defense of the Baltic states and East Prussia. The Red forces were fighting inside Lithuania and were reported to be only about 80 miles from East Prussia.

The American conquest of Saipan is a major victory. This island is the best airbase we have in the central Pacific and its possession opens up great possibilities. From Saipan our super-bombers can reach both Tokyo and the Philippines, which lie approximately 1,500 miles away, and we can comb important Japanese sea communications. This island also affords great possibilities as a naval supply base.

The twenty-five day battle of Saipan was a sanguinary affair. Associated Press War Correspondent Rembert James says that probably 95 per cent of the Japanese force, estimated at more than 20,000 was destroyed. The little men of Nippon made a suicidal defense.

Allies Press

said they had crossed the river Odon southwest of Caen, but there was no immediate confirmation of such a development at the supreme command.

Expect Tank Battle

With more than 1,000 tanks still at his disposal, Rommel might be planning for a battle to win in the Caen plain southeast of the river Orne.

The use of Caen as a port will be impossible for the Allies until German lines are cleared well south of the Orne. A naval officer said Caen could take ships up to 6,000 tons under the best tidal conditions, but for the most part it could be used only by 3,000-ton coastal ships.

Although the town's docks were destroyed, the canal leading from the sea has been in Allied hands since D-day and is largely intact.

HARTFORD WILL INTER 6 CIRCUS VICTIMS TODAY

Hartford, Conn., July 10 (AP)—Hartford prepared today to bury its six unidentified dead as the death list of the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus fire of last Thursday mounted to 157.

The unidentified, three children, two women and one man, will be buried in individual graves in North wood cemetery, Mayor William M. Mortensen has announced.

The Hartford hospital morgue will remain open until 10:30 a. m. in the hope that a last-minute identification of one or more of the victims can be made. Then the bodies will be turned over to Dr. Alfred L. Burgdorf, city health officer, and Deputy Police Chief Michael J. Godfrey.

Among the victims, Dr. Walter Weissenborn, medical examiner said, was a "light, curly-haired girl, five or six, not badly burned, who should be easy to identify."

To Preserve Data

All possible data concerning the unidentified victims will be tabulated and preserved for future reference and possible identification, the mayor stated. These will include dental charts, body measurements and other pertinent facts.

The funeral cortege will leave the hospital at 3 p. m., and will stop at the city hall where Mayor Mortensen, members of the board of aldermen and three clergymen will join the procession. Bearers will be policemen and firemen.

The clergymen will be Dr. Warren S. Archibald of the South End Congregational church; Rabbi Morris Silverman of Emanuel synagogue; and the Rev. Thomas F. Looney of St. Michael's church, who was the first clergyman to reach the scene of the disaster Thursday.

Three More Die

At the cemetery each clergyman will perform the rites of his faith at each grave.

Each casket will have sprays of flowers. In every Hartford church yesterday, amidst poignant, silent grief, clergymen of all faiths read the names of those in their parishes who had died in the greatest circus catastrophe in the country's history. Three persons died during the day.

Ceiling Prices Go On Autos Today

Washington, July 10 (AP)—Used passenger automobiles come under price control today with all makes and models of used automobiles covered by ceiling prices. Sales by individuals as well as dealers are affected.

The office of price administration said the used car business, with annual sales volume of nearly $2,000,000,000, was until today the largest industry that had not been subject to ceiling prices.

Requiring both the seller and the buyer to sign a certificate of transfer, the new order was designed, OPA said, to protect the individual buyer from being overcharged and to guard dealers from unfair competition.

The buyer files the certificate with the local rationing board when he applies for gasoline coupons for the car. The certificate describes the car sold and the price paid. The local board checks the certificate to see that the price is in accordance with the OPA regulation.

OPA Will Control Prices Of Peaches

Washington, July 10 (AP)—Fresh peaches for table use go under price control July 15 for the first time, with maximum retail prices representing reductions of about 25 per cent under those paid for the 1943 crop. The Office of Price Administration announced Sunday.

Highest retail prices should range from 14¢ to 16 cents per pound for the season, OPA said. Peaches will be $2.16 a bushel for the entire season in all except 10 states during the period prior to August 15.

Prices of $2.50 per bushel are authorized in Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, South Carolina, North Carolina, Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma.

Of primary interest to Massachusetts Democrats is the contest for their party's nomination for governor, with Boston's mayor Maurice J. Tobin opposed by State Treasurer Francis X. Hurlay.

Sub Damage At Low Ebb In June

Washington, July 10 (AP)—For every United Nations' merchant ship sunk by German submarines during June, "several times as many U-boats were sent to the bottom." President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill disclosed in a joint monthly report.

"Hitler's submarine fleet failed on all counts in June, 1944," the report asserted, adding that merchant vessel losses to German undersea craft reached "almost the lowest figure of the entire war."

German submarines failed signally to cause any important interference with the Normandy invasion operations, a supplementary report stated. It pointed out that only one merchant ship of the great invasion fleet could be charged off as a possible victim of the U-boat fleet and that "in this case doubt exists as to her destruction by U-boat or mine."

Proposes Health Clinics After War

Washington, July 10 (AP)—Vice Admiral Ross T. McIntire proposed today that the government provide health clinics to help build up a healthy post-war American youth.

McIntire, who is the Navy's surgeon general and President Roosevelt's personal physician, also advocated over-all medical and hospital insurance in a paper submitted to Chairman Pepper (D-Fla.) and a senate subcommittee on health and education.

"The part that the federal government can play in an over-all attempt to reduce the cost of medical care could well be applied to the providing of health clinics that would house laboratory, X-ray and special facilities that could be used by all of the doctors in the community, thereby reducing collateral cost to the patient," he said.

His prepared testimony asserted "there are many ways in which the government could help" without bringing about what he termed "the dreaded so-called 'socialized medicine.'"

President Grant Liner Lost On Reef

San Francisco, July 10 (AP)—The former "round-the-world liner President Grant has been lost on a submerged reef in the Pacific with no loss of life.

The War Shipping Administration said the 13,050-ton vessel grounded only 10 miles from its undisclosed destination.

The Merchant Marine crew arrived in San Francisco Saturday after aiding salvage of the ship's supplies and equipment. For 100 days the crew labored to work the Grant free and was on the verge of success when a great wave struck her broadside, cracking her in two.

Police Probing Assault Report

Members of the local state police today continued their investigation into an alleged assault of Charles Gardner, 24, York Springs, by two men who forced his car off the highway as he was returning home about 10 o'clock Friday night and beat him about the face, lacerating his lip.

Gardner told police that he had been working on a farm Friday and was returning to his home when an auto pulled up beside his car and forced him off the road. There were two men and two women in the auto. The men, who Gardner said appeared to be intoxicated, left their car and attacked the York Springs man. The men, Gardner said made no attempt to rob him, drove from the scene after assaulting him.

20TH RAINLESS DAY RECORDED

Adams county continued hot and dry today, with the drought in the Gettysburg area entering its 20th day.

The last date on which any rain of any account fell in the borough was on June 20 when a half-inch of rain was recorded by the local weather observer, Dr. Henry Stewart. Since that time only traces of rain have been recorded with the latest occurring on the night of July 5-6 when a small amount of rain fell.

With one-third of the month already gone and no large rainfall recorded it is possible that July will become the fourth month this year with a shortage of rainfall. Last month was 50 per cent under normal and January and February were also below normal in the amount of precipitation.

CONVENTION TO DECIDE ABOUT VICE PRESIDENT

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

(By The Associated Press)
The word spread in Democratic circles today that President Roosevelt apparently has decided to let Henry A. Wallace stand or fall on his own record and to leave entirely to the Democratic National convention the choice of a 1944 vice presidential nominee.

That report, on which most party leaders are proceeding, came as Wallace headed toward Washington to report to Mr. Roosevelt Tuesday and to reappraise the political scene after several weeks in China and Russia. Doubts as to a fourth term nomination for the President are no longer expressed.

Word seeping from inner party councils indicated that if the convention consults the Chief Executive as to his wishes, he will express a preference for Wallace.

Opposition To Wallace

But he is represented as not prepared to dictate a choice to the convention, which starts July 19 in Chicago, and if the convention discards Wallace, it would be the party taking the action rather than the President, who is noted for loyalty to the men he places around him.

There is a strong element of opposition to Wallace in party ranks, much of it from the South—Virginia voted Saturday to instruct its 24 delegates to the convention to ballot against Wallace for renomination.

The Virginia party convention said formally:

"It would appear from the public utterances of x x x Wallace that he has become a convert to doctrines and ideologies foreign to the faiths and traditions of Virginia."

213 Uninstructed

Virginia left her delegates uninstructed on the presidential issue but told them to vote as a unit. The action completed the list of 1,176 convention delegate votes, which are lined up this way on the basis of unofficial tabulations:

Needed to nominate 589.

Pledged to Roosevelt 582.

Claimed for Roosevelt 408.

Pledged and claimed for former Governor Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts 3.

Uninstructed and unclaimed 213.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, the Republican presidential nominee after a quiet Sunday at his Pawling, N. Y., home, returned to Albany to resume campaign talks with Republican leaders in congress.

BOMBERS LASH 18 TRAINS AND HEAVY CONVOYS

By GLADWIN HILL

London, July 10 (AP)—Large forces of Allied bombers and fighters streamed across the English channel in improving weather today in support of the British and American troops advancing on the Normandy battlefield.

During the night RAF Mosquito and Boston bombers ranged deep into France and attacked 18 trains and railroads leading to the German front, highway convoys and Seine river bridges.

The Paris radio said Allied planes bomber northeast Paris this morning.

Mosquitos bombed a synthetic oil plant at Boer last night. Lancasters with fighter cover attacked an unidentified military objective in northern France. Other RAF planes laid mines in enemy waters and not an aircraft was lost in the night's operations.

Low-Flying Bombers

German reinforcements struggling westward across the Seine near the coast just east of Le Havre on ferries and pontoon bridges were bombed and strafed over a 30-mile stretch between Quillebeuf and Duclair.

The German radio said single Allied raiders were over northwest Germany early this morning.

German positions only 50 yards ahead of Canadian troops were attacked by typhoons that swooped in no more than 10 feet over the soldiers' heads.

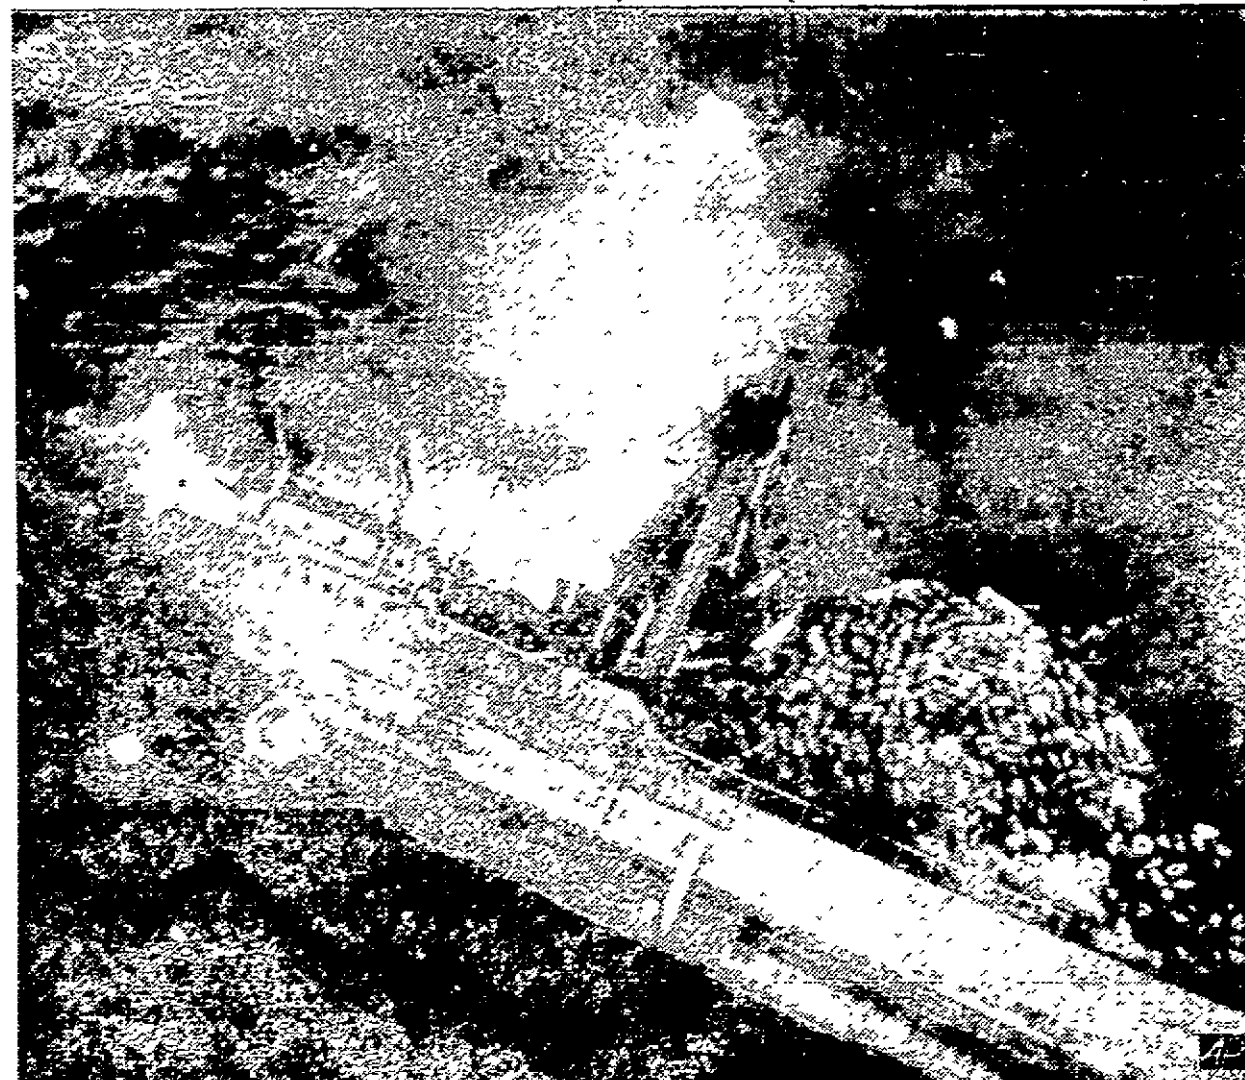

"Those pilots keep bearing on the target even when the enemy fire is really heavy," said Canadian Major D. G. Crofton. "You can hear the typhoon cannon open up after the rockets whoosh in—and the lads love it."

Eleven Allied planes have been reported lost thus far in yesterday's 3,500 sorties, made despite poor weather, and at least the same number of German planes were shot down. Three of the Allied planes lost were heavy bombers.

CARS COLLIDE

Damage was slight and no one was injured when cars driven by William Rudisill, York street, and George Heagey, Steinwehr avenue, collided in center square Saturday evening. Borough Officer Paul B. Shearer investigated and laid no charges. The accident occurred when Rudisill stopped to avoid hitting a car ahead of him while Heagey, who was following Rudisill, failed to see his car come to a halt.

Willkie And Pryor Supporting Dewey

Albany, N. Y., July 10 (AP)—Governor Thomas E. Dewey put the executive mansion lurch out for Republican members of congress bearing presidential campaign advice today as another major backer of Wendell L. Willkie pledged his unqualified support.

Refreshed by a week-end of relaxation at his Pawling farm in anticipation of today's heavy schedule of conferences, the Republican presidential nominee returned to Albany last night to learn of his unreserved endorsement by Samuel F. Pryor of Connecticut, eastern campaign manager for Willkie in 1940.

Pryor's statement also predicted "a comfortable majority" of Connecticut votes for Dewey and his running mate, Ohio's governor John W. Bricker.

on the locomotive when it stopped.

The police officer fixed the scene of the accident as between Myers' home, which was four or five miles away, and the place of his employment, one and a half to two miles away.

Warrenfeltz said Selby blew the whistle as soon as the man was seen on the tracks. The train, estimated by crewmen to have been traveling 20 or 21 miles an hour, was within 75 feet of Myers when it was recognized as a man. Selby immediately applied the emergency brakes and "dropped sand" to provide traction for stopping, he said.

Warrenfeltz testified that Myers was sitting on the inside of the right rail, with his feet on the outside of the track. His head and chest the fireman said, appeared to be lying on his legs.

MILITARY VOTES FACTOR IN FALL

Harrisburg, July 10 (AP)—A soldier vote registration of more than 510,000 in Pennsylvania presents leaders of both Republican and Democratic parties with a major question in calculating their chances of victory at the November presidential election.

With a Republican registration of 2,300,000 and a Democratic enrollment of 1,735,000 in the state, the party chiefs concede that such a big bloc of votes could be a big factor in the result but they point out, the big question is how many of the service men and women will vote.

Records of past elections since America entered the war show only a small vote from the men and women in uniform but they were cast under the commonwealth's regular absentee ballot law geared to peace-time elections—when the soldier or sailor had to make application for a ballot by mail to his county election board and go through other red tape.

In 1942 when Governor Martin was elected with a vote of 1,267,373 against 1,149,291 for his Democratic opponent, Auditor General F. Charles Ross, only 10,592 soldier votes were recorded. The 1943 municipal election saw only 9,065 soldier votes and the figure was further reduced in the April primary this year. The total is still incomplete but the state election bureau estimated it at 8,000.

Sergeant Saves Injured Pilot

A U. S. Bomber Base in Britain, July 10 (AP)—Sgt. Richard Gray of Warren, Pa., owes his life to another sergeant who was able to punch his way through a crippled bomber and bring the ship back from a recent raid on France.

The engineer-gunner, Sgt. Alvin J. Gibbons of Oakley, Utah, found the pilot wounded after several flak bursts had struck the bomber. The co-pilot had been knocked out and three crewmen had bailed out.

Gibbons, who learned to fly a tiny cub plane on his father's farm two years ago, got the plane back over England although it had no rudder, no hydraulic system and no instruments except the altimeter.

He kept the plane circling until the pilot, Sgt. Gray, Sgt. Ralph P. Murphy of Perryopolis, Pa., and two other crewmen bailed out. Then Gibbons jumped.

WARNS COURTS

Richard Swain, Jr., New Oxford, was dismissed in view of his impending induction into the armed forces. If he is not inducted he will be returned to court. He was directed to pay the costs before entering service.

Court adjourned until next Saturday morning at 11 o'clock when a session will be held in the offices of Judge Sheely. The next open court is set for August 5.

Mrs. Natalie Keleman, Harrisburg, who was to have appeared before the court on burglary and larceny charges in thefts at Dale's store and at an East Berlin service station, was returned to jail to be turned over to Berks county authorities where she is wanted on similar charges. Later she will return to Adams county for disposition of the local charges. She has been a prisoner in the county jail here for more than two weeks.

NAZIS BATTLE SERIOUS THREAT BEHIND LINES

By WADE WERNER

Madrid, July 10 (AP)—Far behind the tumult and destruction on the great battlefronts of Normandy, Russia and Italy, the Germans are struggling desperately to save off defeat on the transportation front—on which the defense of all the others depends.

The whole picture suggests the possibility the battle for Europe may be decided enroute to the front—an armageddon on wheels.

The desperate situation on this far-flung front which links production areas with the armies is disclosed in German newspapers reaching Spain.

Using Horses Now

They appeal to the German people to understand the complete stoppage of railway traffic in certain areas, and not to lose patience. There are numerous articles glorifying railwaymen and urging them to still greater effort "under conditions of personal danger similar to the fighting front."

In addition there are reports of campaigns to divert every possible self-propelled or horse-drawn vehicle to supplement the dwindling capacity of the bomb-battered and sabotage ridden railway network.

During the period from March through May, some 800 persons were reported killed in train wrecks in Germany while the Berlin newspaper Voelksischer Beobachter, praising efforts of German railwaymen in France to keep supplies rolling, describes the terrific intensity of the Allied bombardments preparatory to the Normandy offensive.

Arresting Crewmen

"Hundreds of British and American heavy bombers dumped on little railway junctions in France gigantic weights of bombs sufficient to transform whole cities in to rubble and ashes," the newspaper reported, "and in addition countless trains have been shot up by cannon and machine guns of mauling planes."

"Since the Normandy landings it has become even worse with the onslaughts of saboteurs," the newspaper added. "Nevertheless, through efforts described as superhuman, railroaders have managed to keep trains moving to the front. It declared.

Recent underground information from Germany say numerous railwaymen have been arrested for refusal to man munitions trains passing through heavily bombed areas.

SAIPAN FINALE UGLY PICTURE, SAYS REPORTER

Pearl Harbor, July 10 (AP)—Vast new possibilities of sea and air smashes toward Japan and the Philippines surged into view today with the conquest of Saipan and Noemfoor islands in the western Pacific.

Onrushing American forces wrested Saipan Saturday from a terrified Japanese garrison trapped on the island's northern tip. It fell 24 hours after Allied forces under Gen. MacArthur completely took over Noemfoor near New Guinea's northern west end.

AP War Correspondent Rembert James, representing the combined Allied press, came through with the first details of the savage bitter-end struggle, the trapped Japanese offered on Saipan.

"Organized Japanese resistance ended just before dusk yesterday (Saturday)," he wrote. "Citizens were surrendering by the hundreds. In 25 days of battle American forces had battered the first great hole in Japan's inner defense armor and carried the war more than 1,000 miles westward.

Garrison Destroyed
From Saipan American planes can fly across Japan's sea and air routes southward from the empire and even Japanese home islands will be in reach of long-range planes."

James said probably 95 per cent of the Japanese garrison, estimated at more than 20,000 when the invasion began July 14, had been destroyed.

"The finale yesterday was an ugly spectacle of senseless dying," he continued.

Enemy troops, weakened to a point of exhaustion by two days of futile counterattack, were pushed steadily backward. "The desperation and panic behind the enemy lines helped to crumble Japanese defenses."

Japs Run Into Sea
"American airmen flying over the trapped foe saw signs of bewilderment and terror among the troops and civilians there. At one place scores of Japanese swam out into the sea as the battle drew nearer."

"There was no where to swim to and they had to swim back or drown."

Vice Admiral John H. Hoover, commander of the central Pacific forward area, said:

"Saipan offers the best possibilities for airfield development of any of the islands captured from the Japanese in the central Pacific campaign."

"Its main airstrip is far the best we have taken and the island's size offers additional advantages of wide dispersal."

Evacuation Of London Orderly

London, July 10 (AP)—The evacuation of women and children from London and various cities in southern England continued in orderly fashion today as the German flying bomb offensive went into its 26th day.

More than 50,000 children alone already have been moved out of the immediate danger zone with only one minor hitch in arrangements, and that was quickly solved. The hitch developed when some residents in raid-free York appeared reluctant to take evacuees into their homes, but the mayor signed a compulsory order and within a few hours 1,600 bombed out women and children who had detained in that city were safely billeted.

It was a noisy night as the Germans took advantage of overcast skies over Dover Strait to sneak their robot planes through the defense wall. An official announcement acknowledged damage and casualties in both London and the southern counties.

Before darkness set in however, fighter pilots were credited with shooting down a considerable number of the buzz bombs into the sea.

The chief rail trunk line of Japan runs along the east coast of Honshu island.

The density of population in the Nile valley in Egypt is greater than in any country in Europe.

CONVENTION TO DECIDE ABOUT VICE PRESIDENT

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
(By The Associated Press)
The word spread in Democratic circles today that President Roosevelt apparently has decided to let Henry A. Wallace stand or fall on his own record and to leave entirely to the Democratic National convention the choice of a 1944 vice presidential nominee.

That report, on which most party leaders are proceeding, came as Wallace headed toward Washington to report to Mr. Roosevelt Tuesday and to reappraise the political scene after several weeks in China and Russia. Doubts as to a fourth term nomination for the President are no longer expressed.

Word seeping from inner party councils indicated that if the convention consults the Chief Executive as to his wishes, he will express a preference for Wallace.

Opposition To Wallace

But he is represented as not prepared to dictate a choice to the convention, which starts July 19 in Chicago, and if the convention discards Wallace, it would be the party taking the action rather than the President, who is noted for loyalty to the men he places around him.

There is a strong element of opposition to Wallace in party ranks, much of it from the South-Virginia voted Saturday to instruct its 24 delegates to the convention to ballot against Wallace for renomination.

The Virginia party convention said formally:

"It would appear from the public utterances of x x x Wallace that he has become a convert to doctrines and ideologies foreign to the faiths and traditions of Virginia."

213 Uninstructed
Virginia left her delegates uninstructed on the presidential issue but told them to vote as a unit. The action completed the list of 1,176 convention delegate votes, which are lined up this way on the basis of unofficial tabulations:

Needed to nominate 569.
Pledged to Roosevelt 552.
Claimed for Wallace 408.

Pledged and claimed for former Governor Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts 3.

Uninstructed and unclaimed 213.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, the Republican presidential nominee, after a quiet Sunday at his Pawling, N. Y., home, returned to Albany to resume campaign talks with Republican leaders in congress.

BOMBERS LASH 18 TRAINS AND HEAVY CONVOYS

By GLADWIN HILL
London, July 10 (AP)—Large forces of Allied bombers and fighters streamed across the English channel in improving weather today in support of the British and American troops advancing on the Normandy battlefield.

During the night RAF Mosquito and Boston Bombers ranged deep into France and attacked 18 trains and railroads leading to the German front, highway convoys and Seine river bridges.

The Paris radio said Allied planes bombed northeast Paris this morning.

Mosquitos bombed a synthetic oil plant at Boer last night. Lancasters with fighter cover attacked an unidentified military objective in northern France. Other RAF planes laid mines in enemy waters and not an aircraft was lost in the night's operations.

Low-Flying Bombers

German reinforcements struggling westward across the Seine near the coast just east of Le Havre on ferries and pontoon bridges were bombed and strafed over a 30-mile stretch between Quillebeuf and Duclair.

The German radio said single Allied raiders were over northwest Germany early this morning.

German positions only 50 yards ahead of Canadian troops were attacked by typhoons that swooped in no more than 10 feet over the soldiers' heads.

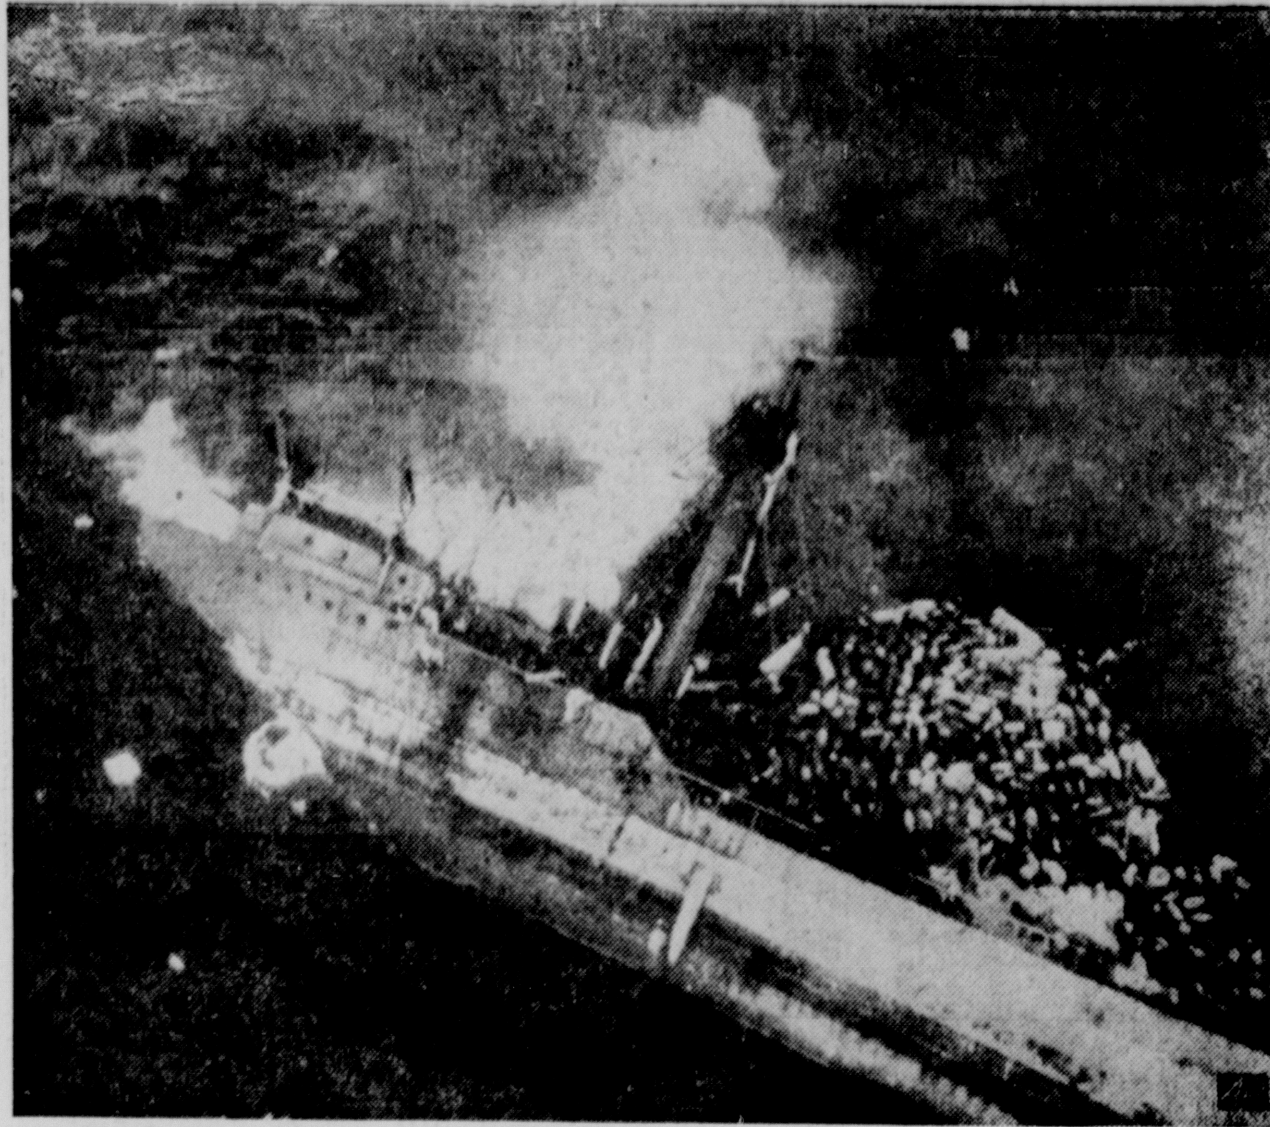

"Those pilots keep bearing on the target even when the enemy fire is really heavy," said Canadian Major D. G. Crofton. "You can hear the typhoon cannon open up after the rockets whoosh in—and the lads love it."

Eleven Allied planes have been reported lost thus far in yesterday's 3,500 sorties, made despite poor weather, and at least the same number of German planes were shot down. Three of the Allied planes lost were heavy bombers.

CARS COLLIDE

Damage was slight and no one was injured when cars driven by William Rudisill, York street, and George Heagey, Steinwehr avenue, collided in center square Saturday evening. Borough Officer Paul B. Shealer investigated and laid no charges. The accident occurred when Rudisill stopped to avoid hitting a car ahead of him while Heagey, who was following Rudisill, failed to see his car come to a halt.

Willkie And Pryor Supporting Dewey

Albany, N. Y., July 10 (AP)—Governor Thomas E. Dewey put the executive mansion latch out for Republican members of congress bearing presidential campaign advice today as another major backer of Wendell L. Willkie pledged his unqualified support.

Refreshed by a week-end of relaxation at his Pawling farm in anticipation of today's heavy schedule of conferences, the Republican presidential nominee returned to Albany last night to learn of his unreserved endorsement by Samuel F. Pryor of Connecticut, eastern campaign manager for Willkie in 1940.

Pryor's statement also predicted "a comfortable majority" of Connecticut votes for Dewey and his running mate, Ohio's governor John W. Bricker.

on the locomotive when it stopped.

The police officer fixed the scene of the accident as between Myers' home, which was four or five miles away, and the place of his employment, one and a half to two miles away.

Warrenfeltz said Selby blew the whistle as soon as the man was seen on the tracks. The train, estimated by crewmen to have been traveling 20 or 21 miles an hour, was within 75 feet of Myers when it was recognized as a man. Selby immediately applied the emergency brakes and "dropped sand," to provide traction for stopping, he said.

Warrenfeltz testified that Myers was sitting on the inside of the right rail, with his feet on the outside of the track. His head and chest the fireman said, appeared to be lying on his legs.

MILITARY VOTES FACTOR IN FALL

Harrisburg, July 10 (AP)—A soldier vote registration of more than 510,000 in Pennsylvania presents leaders of both Republican and Democratic parties with a major question in calculating their chances of victory at the November presidential election.

With a Republican registration of 2,500,000 and a Democratic enrollment of 1,725,000 in the state, the party chieftains concede that such a big bloc of votes could be a big factor in the result but, they point out, the big question is how many of the service men and women will vote.

Records of past elections since America entered the war show only a small vote from the men and women in uniform but they were cast under the commonwealth's regular absentee ballot law—geared to peacetime elections—when the soldier or sailor had to make application for a ballot by mail to his county election board and go through other red tape.

In 1942 when Governor Martin was elected with a vote of 1,367,373 against 1,149,897 for his Democratic opponent, Auditor General F. Clair Ross, only 10,592 soldier votes were recorded. The 1943 municipal election saw only 9,095 soldier votes and the figure was further reduced in the April primary this year. The state election bureau estimated it at 8,000.

SYNTHETIC RUBBER

Sergeant Saves Injured Pilot

A U. S. Bomber Base in Britain, July 10 (AP)—Sgt. Richard Gray of Warren, Pa., owes his life to another sergeant who was able to pinch hit for the pilot of a crippled liberator bomber and bring the ship back from a recent raid on France.

The engineer-gunner, Sgt. Alvin J. Gibbons of Oakley, Utah, found the pilot wounded after several flak bursts had struck the bomber. The co-pilot had been knocked out and three crewmen had bailed out.

Gibbons, who learned to fly a tiny cub plane on his father's farm two years ago, got the plane back over England although it had no rudder, no hydraulic system and no instruments except the altimeter.

He kept the plane circling until the pilot, Sgt. Gray, Sgt. Ralph P. Murphy of Perryopolis, Pa., and two other crewmen bailed out. Then Gibbons jumped.

Richard Swain, Jr., New Oxford, was dismissed in view of his impending induction into the armed forces. If he is not inducted he will be returned to court. He was directed to pay the costs before entering service.

Court adjourned until next Saturday morning at 11 o'clock when a session will be held in the offices of Judge Sheely. The next open court is set for August 5.

Mrs. Natalie Keleman, Harrisburg, who was to have appeared before the court on burglary and larceny charges in thefts at Dale's tire shop and at an East Berlin service station, was returned to jail to be turned over to Berks county authorities where she is wanted on similar charges. Later she will return to Adams county for disposition of the local charges. She has been a prisoner in the county jail here for more than two weeks.

NAZIS BATTLE SERIOUS THREAT BEHIND LINES

By WADE WERNER
Madrid, July 10 (AP)—Far behind the tumult and destruction on the great battlefronts of Normandy, Russia and Italy, the Germans are struggling desperately to stave off defeat on the transportation front—on which the defense of all the others depends.

The whole picture suggests the possibility the battle for Europe may be decided enroute to the front—an armageddon on wheels.

The desperate situation on this far-flung front which links production areas with the armies is disclosed in German newspapers reaching Spain.

Using Horses Now

They appeal to the German people to understand the complete stoppage of railway traffic in certain areas, and not to lose patience. There are numerous articles glorifying railwaymen and urging them to still greater effort "under conditions of personal danger similar to the fighting front."

In addition there are reports of campaigns to divert every possible self-propelled or horse-drawn vehicle to supplement the dwindling capacity of the bomb-battered and sabotage ridden railway network.

During the period from March through May, some 800 persons were reported killed in train wrecks in Germany while the Berlin newspaper Voelkischer Beobachter, praising efforts of German railwaymen in France to keep supplies rolling, describes the terrific intensity of the Allied bombardments preparatory to the Normandy offensive.

Arresting Crewmen

"Hundreds of British and American heavy bombers dumped on little railway junctions in France gigantic weights of bombs sufficient to transform whole cities into rubble and ashes," the newspaper reported, "and in addition countless trains have been shot up by cannon and machine guns of marauding planes."

"Since the Normandy landings it has become even worse with the onslaughts of saboteurs," the newspaper added. "Nevertheless, through efforts described as superhuman, railroads have managed to keep trains moving to the front, it declared."

Recent underground information from Germany say numerous railwaymen have been arrested for refusal to man munitions trains passing through heavily bombed areas.

SAIPAN FINALE UGLY PICTURE, SAYS REPORTER

Pearl Harbor, July 10 (AP)—Vast new possibilities of sea and air smashes toward Japan and the Philippines surged into view today with the conquest of Saipan and Noemfoor islands in the western Pacific.

Onrushing American forces wrested Saipan Saturday from a terrified Japanese garrison trapped on the island's northern tip. It fell 24 hours after Allied forces under Gen. MacArthur completely took over Noemfoor near New Guinea's northwest end.

AP War Correspondent Rembert James, representing the combined Allied press, came through with the first details of the savage bitter-end struggle the trapped Japanese offered on Saipan.

"Organized Japanese resistance ended just before dusk yesterday (Saturday)," he wrote. "Civilians were surrendering by the hundreds. 'In 25 days of battle American forces had battered the first great hole in Japan's inner defense armor and carried the war more than 1,000 miles westward.'

Garrison Destroyed

"From Saipan American planes can fly across Japan's sea and air routes southward from the empire and even Japanese home islands will be in reach of long-range planes," James said probably 95 per cent of the Japanese garrison, estimated at more than 20,000 when the invasion began July 14, had been destroyed.

"The finale yesterday was an ugly spectacle of senseless dying," he continued.

Enemy troops, weakened to a point of exhaustion by two days of futile counterattack, were pushed steadily backward. "The desperation and panic behind the enemy lines helped to crumble Japanese defenses."

Vice Admiral John H. Hoover, commander of the central Pacific forward area, said:

"Saipan offers the best possibilities for airfield development of any of the islands captured from the Japanese in the central Pacific campaign."

"Its main airstrip is far the best we have taken and the island's size offers additional advantages of wide dispersal."

An Evening Thought

It is not well to see everything to hear everything; let many causes of offense pass by us unnoticed. Seneca.

Just Folks

TO THE NEXT AGE'S GRANDCHILDREN

When back he comes, the fighting done, The cruel war for freedom won, And in your time you've come to earth, Allowed the privilege of birth, The man who'll your grandpa be Will tell you stories after tea.

He'll tell you when invasion came Of seeing villages aflame; Of wading waist-deep to the land; Of fighting Germans, hand to hand; Four thousand ships on convoy lanes And fifty miles of glider planes!

You'll never see this world war torn, Because as yet you stay unborn, But he who will your grandpa be Is fighting, land, or sky, or sea, That when you pass the gate of birth You'll find a better, happier earth.

He battles now, and offers all, To save the world for children small, He flies the skies or dives the sea, Or guards a trench to keep you free; And when you're born and all is well, What tales to you, he'll have to tell!

Today's Talk

THAT INVISIBLE THING CALLED SPIRIT

The living, vital thing about a human being is his spirit. The joy, the struggle and the growth of his soul are all in it. It's his richest possession.

It's the spirit that a person puts into his work that makes him outstandingly efficient. It's this spirit that attracts others to his standard, like bees to honey. Without any of it at all, he's a mere drone, a bystander and an obstructionist.

The atoms of character are in it. The plans, purposes, dreams and inward faith of one are all ingredients of this spirit that makes one vibrant in action and peaceful in mood. It radiates like the sun or like a great light. It draws the faint-hearted and those of little faith to one who has this ever-glowing spirit.

It's this living, ever-growing and ever-expanding spirit that creates great leaders, and that always draws followers.

This spirit thrives best and longest in a clean, healthy body. Life beauty that permeates a cathedral, sooths all who enter it. Others inspire this spirit in us, and we help to inspire it in others. It works both ways and all ways.

Like the gentle rain that freshens and moistens the dry earth, giving life and fruition to it, this invisible spirit of ours sheds its blessings far and wide. People who have it, and who keep distributing it, know the secret of happiness.

Understanding, the pains of labor and sacrifice, and the delight of triumph, all are enduring elements of the thing which we call spirit in a man or woman. It's spirit, deeply hidden, that puts drive, hope and faith into all that we do. Dampen it yourself, or allow others to dampen it, and the energy of the heart recedes.

A radiant personality is a begetter of better spirit. Keep yours that way!

Out Of The Past

From the Files of the Star and Sentinel and The Gettysburg Times

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO

Celebration of the 4th: The Central Clay Club of Adams county, agreeably to arrangement, joined by a large number of their old and tried Whig friends from the country, celebrated the Anniversary of American Independence at a beautiful wood near the borough. The following officers were appointed for the day:

President, James Bell, sen.

Vice Presidents, Capt. Joseph Wilson, John Dickson, Esq., Francis McNutt, Philip Beamer, Wm. McChellan, James McCosh, Col. J. I. Neely, Capt. John Adair.

Secretaries, Samuel Durbin, Samuel P. Neely, A. D. Buchler, Nicholas Codori, Jeremiah Culp.

The Declaration of Independence was read by Robert G. Harper. At intervals during the reading of Toasts, David Cooper, David McConaughy and Daniel M. Smyser, Esqs., addressed the assembly.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Dedication Ceremonies: The ceremonies connected with the dedication of the Monument in the Soldiers National Cemetery, on Thursday, the 1st inst., attracted a large crowd. Among the distinguished persons we noticed Gen. Meade, Gen. Geary, Governor of the State; Gen. Rawlins, Secretary of War, Henry Ward Beecher, Bayard Taylor, Senator Cameron; Hon. J. P. Wickham, State Superintendent of Common Schools.

At 10 o'clock a. m., the procession formed in the public square and proceeded to the cemetery. The persons around the stand were estimated at from 5,000 to 15,000.

David Wills, Esq., Chairman of the Committee, introduced Henry Ward Beecher, who made the opening prayer. General Meade made an address, Hon. O. P. Morton, Senator from Indiana, pronounced the oration. Bayard Taylor, read Dedication Ode, written for the occasion and Rev. Dr. Schmucker pronounced the closing prayer.

Closed: The Gettysburg Female Institute, Mrs. Eyster, principal, closed on the 25th ult., the exercises of the graduating class attracting a large audience. The members of the graduating class—Miss Mary Julia Breidenbaugh, Miss Irene Danner, and Miss Julia Stammer—with other pupils, read creditable compositions. Miss Julia Stammer read the valedictory.

Abandoned: On Wednesday morning, a mulatto child, apparently but two or three days old, was found at the door of the house of James Wilson, (colored) on the Chambersburg road, near town. It was almost entirely naked. The matter is being investigated. In the meantime, we understand the child has been taken charge of by William Cuff, colored.

Presentation.—Mr. Sheely's Normal school closed on the 25th ult., with the usual interesting exercises. The students, through Mr. John Myers, presented Mr. Sheely with a handsome Silver Caster, from Soper and McCarmey's Mr. Myers making a neat presentation speech and Mr. Sheely responding; after which the whole party adjourned to Mr. Gruel's to partake of tea cream and other good things.

The Fourth: Saturday was observed in this place in honor of the "Fourth." The Dedication ceremonies of the 1st and other exercises of the week had engrossed the attention of our people, and there was no public demonstration. The Zouaves and the Gettysburg band were out in the morning—the former firing salutes and the latter discoursing capital music—"Young America" who didn't have a chance to figure in the Dedication ceremonies, had Saturday pretty much to themselves, and from early morn to derry eve, we had an incessant pop-pop-pop of patch crackers squish and power.

Married. Chronister-Myers. On the 27th ult., by Rev. D. M. Blackwelder, Mr. David L. Chronister to Miss Elizabeth Myers, both of Lancaster township.

Landwehr-Stock. On the 22nd ult., by Rev. Father Blanche, of St. Peter's church, Philadelphia, Mr. John Landwehr, of Philadelphia, to Miss Isabelle Stock, of Gettysburg.

McKenrick-Read. On the 22d ult., by Rev. W. M. Burchfield, Mr. J. Francis McKenrick, of Gettysburg, to Miss M. Elmer Read, of Clearfield county, Pa.

Wearer-Socks. On the 29th ult., by Rev. E. Brudenburgh, Mr. Wm. F. Wearer of this place to Miss Jennie Sauer of Cambridge township.

SOVIETS CRUSH FOE; CAPTURE CITY OF WILNO

Moscow, July 10 (AP)—The Red Army fought for the second day in the streets of the Lithuanian capital of Wilno today, but the city appeared doomed to early capitulation.

London dispatches said the Russian Army, leaving large forces of tanks and infantry to battle the Germans in Wilno, was dashing westward towards Kaunas (Kovno), 50 miles beyond Wilno, as the disordered Germans fell back across Lithuania and Poland in a military collapse that grew more disastrous by the hour.

Northwest of Wilno the Russians had reached within 80 to 85 miles of East Prussia at unspecified points, these reports said.

While some troops of Gen. Ivan Cherniakhovsky's Third White Russian army battered down resistance inside Wilno, others were deployed on the left flank and captured the railway junction of Lida, 50 miles to the south.

Take 300 Points

Cherniakhovsky's men captured more than 300 other points. It was announced.

Gen. Ivan Bagration's First Baltic army struck northeast of Wilno and seized Sventsanyi, 48 miles from the capital, and just inside the Lithuanian border, bringing the Wilno-Daugavpils (Drinsk) railroad under fire.

The Nazi garrison in Wilno fought stubbornly for every street, square and house in the city, but with the lines southwest to Bialystok and northwest of Kaunas the only remaining rail communications, it appeared doomed to early destruction.

Gen. Georg Zakharov's Second White Russian army, which has been lagging behind the others in the offensive, crossed the Lida-Barnovsk railroad, taking 150 towns.

Hitler Flees

(The OWI in New York said the Stockholm newspaper Afton-Tidningen carried an article declaring Adolf Hitler moved his headquarters at Loetzen in East Prussia "farther inland" because of the "serious situation" on the eastern front.)

A Soviet war bulletin asserted the Russians had captured the main railway station and airport in Wilno and were inflicting tremendous losses on the Nazis in heavy street fighting. A large airborne force brought up by the Germans was wiped out, the communique said.

(The German radio said this morning that the Nazi garrison had withdrawn to the center of Wilno, where heavy fighting continued.)

The Soviet communique said more than 700 towns northeast of Wilno were captured in the new action on the First Baltic front.

BONDS OVER AMERICA

Unknown Soldier

When Spring trips north and scents the budding apple trees of Virginia's Shenandoah Valley the folk of Winchester bring flowers to Stonewall cemetery where stands the figure dedicated to the "unknown and unrecorded dead" of the Civil War.

Our "unknown" dead are being buried today on many battlefields but the "unknown" who will never be honored is the worker whose name is "unknown" to the rolls of War Bond buyers.

WALLACE SEES ERA OF PACIFIC AHEAD FOR U. S.

Seattle, Wash., July 10 (AP)—A post-war "era of the Pacific" marked by vast international airlines and communications systems, through areas now thinly populated is forecast by Vice President Henry A. Wallace.

In a nationwide broadcast yesterday on his return from China and Siberian Russia, Wallace asserted "trade with Russia and China will help keep the factories of America busy in the days that be ahead," and said he was "convinced that a main area of development after this war x x x will be in the new world of the north Pacific and eastern Asia."

He was in Seattle only briefly to make his address, then left for Washington, D. C., where he said he would report to the President Tuesday.

"The new frontier extends from Minneapolis via the coast states and Alaska through Siberia and China all the way to central Asia," he said. "Here are vast resources of minerals and manpower to be developed by democratic, peaceful methods—the methods not of exploitation, but on the contrary the more profitable method of creating higher living standards for hundreds of millions of people."

Sees Peace Ahead

During his seven weeks travels, Wallace said he saw virtually no likelihood of postwar internecine strife in China, and said:

"Personally I am convinced China and the USSR will take the necessary steps to ensure continuing peace and to promote the cultural and commercial exchanges among the nations of the Pacific to the benefit of all."

Wallace said he brought the personal thanks of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek to Rep. Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash.) and President Roosevelt for the repeal of the Chinese Exclusion Act. Magnuson sponsored the repeal measure which, Chiang said, "gives us face in the Orient."

ATTENTION! ALL HOME CANNERS!

If we all pitch in, 1944 will see the greatest food production in our history.

But that will require your help.

It's up to you: 1. grow every ounce of food you possibly can; 2. use all the food you grow; 3. can your food by the proper and safe methods.

Every ounce of home-canned food is urgently needed. Your Government begs you not only to match what you did last year but, if possible, to better your 1943 record.

Put up fruits and tomatoes by the boiling-water bath method—a safe and satisfactory method for these foods.

But before you begin your 1944 canning of all other vegetables, Good Housekeeping wants to tell you how to avoid a danger that may occur in home-canned food—a danger recognized by many authorities, including the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

That danger is botulinus food poisoning!

Botulinus poisoning comes from bacteria that live in the soil and cling to vegetables. It is rare—but it isn't confined to just a few parts of the country, as some people think.

Botulinus germs may be on the food you can. They must be destroyed. Whenever these bacteria are present in the food and are not destroyed during the canning process, they gradually produce a toxin which is poisonous.

If you don't already own a pressure cooker, you'll be glad to know that the Government is allowing the manufacture of 400,000 new cookers for sale this summer, without priorities.

If you can't buy a pressure cooker, borrow your neighbor's . . . or perhaps you'll find one available through a community canning group. If not, form your own community group, and buy one. To be safe, don't can low-acid vegetables any other way.

We take this opportunity to issue two further warnings: 1. Oven canning is dangerous. It has caused many serious accidents to persons and to property. Shun it! 2. All home-canned foods should be examined carefully when opened. If there is evidence of spoilage, the food should not be used. NEVER TASTE to discover spoilage.*

By all means, put up every ounce of surplus food you possibly can. Our armed forces and the hungry nations of the earth need the benefits of our abundance.

An Evening Thought

It is not well to see everything, to hear everything; let many causes of offense pass by us unnoticed. Seneca.

Just Folks

TO THE NEXT AGE'S GRANDCHILDREN

When back he comes, the fighting done.

The cruel war for freedom won. And in your time you've come to earth.

Allowed the privilege of birth. The man who will your grandpa be. Will tell you stories after tea.

He'll tell you when invasion came Of seeing villages aflame; Of wading waist-deep to the land; Of fighting Germans, hand to hand; Four thousand ships on convoy lanes

And fifty miles of glider planes! You'll never see this world war torn. Because as yet you stay unborn. But he who will your grandpa be Is fighting, land, or sky, or sea. That when you pass the gate of birth You'll find a better, happier earth.

He battles now, and offers all. To save the world for children small. He flies the skies or dives the sea Or guards a trench to keep you free; And when you're born and all is well,

What tales, to you, he'll have to tell!

He battles now, and offers all. To save the world for children small. He flies the skies or dives the sea Or guards a trench to keep you free; And when you're born and all is well,

What tales, to you, he'll have to tell!

Today's Talk

THAT INVISIBLE THING CALLED SPIRIT

The living, vital thing about a human being is his spirit. The joy, the struggle and the growth of his soul are all in it. It's his richest possession.

It's the spirit that a person puts into his work that makes him outstandingly efficient. It's this spirit that attracts others to his standard, like bees to honey. Without any of it at all, he's a mere drone, a bystander and an obstructionist.

The atoms of character are in it. The plans, purposes, dreams and inward faith of one are all ingredients of this spirit that makes one vibrant in action and peaceful in mood. It radiates like the sun or like a great light. It draws the faint-hearted and those of little faith to one who has this ever-glowing spirit.

It's this living, ever-growing and ever-expanding spirit that creates great leaders, and that always draws followers.

This spirit thrives best and longest in a clean, healthy body. Like beauty that permeates a cathedral, soothing all who enter it. Others inspire this spirit in us. It works both ways and all ways.

Like the gentle rain that freshens and moistens the dry earth, giving life and fruition to it, this invisible spirit of ours sheds its blessings far and wide. People who have it, and who keep distributing it, know the secret of happiness.

Understanding, the pains of labor and sacrifice, and the delight of triumph, all are enduring elements of the thing which we call spirit in a man or woman. It's spirit, deeply hidden, that puts drive, hope and faith into all that we do. Dampen it yourself, or allow others to dampen it, and the energy of the heart recedes.

A radiant personality is a beehive of active spirit. Keep yours that way!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Somewhere."

ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO

Celebration of the 4th: The Central Clay Club of Adams county, agreeably to arrangement, joined by a large number of their old and tried Whig friends from the country, celebrated the Anniversary of American Independence at a beautiful wood near the borough. The following officers were appointed for the day:

President, James Bell, sen.

Vice Presidents, Capt. Joseph Wilson, John Dickson, Esq., Francis McNutt, Philip Benner, Wm. McClellan, James McCosh, Col. J. L. Neely, Capt. John Adair.

Secretaries, Samuel Durbaner, Samuel P. Neely, A. D. Buehler, Nicholas Codori, Jeremiah Culp.

The Declaration of Independence was read by Robert G. Harper. At intervals during the reading of Toasts, David Cooper, David McCaughy and Daniel M. Smyser, Esqs., addressed the assembly.

SEVENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Dedication Ceremonies: The ceremonies connected with the dedication of the Monument in the Soldiers National Cemetery, on Thursday, the 1st inst., attracted a large crowd. Among the distinguished persons we noticed Gen. Meade, Gen. Geary, Governor of the State; Gen. Rawlins, Secretary of War, Henry Ward Beecher, Bayard Taylor, Senator Cameron; Hon. J. P. Wickham, State superintendent of Common schools.

At 10 o'clock a. m., the procession formed in the public square and proceeded to the cemetery. The persons around the stand were estimated at from 5,000 to 15,000.

David Wills, Esq., Chairman of the Committee, introduced Henry Ward Beecher, who made the opening prayer. General Meade made an address, Hon. O. P. Morton, Senator from Indiana, pronounced the oration, Bayard Taylor, read Dedication Ode, written for the occasion and Rev. Dr. Schmucker pronounced the closing prayer.

Closed: The Gettysburg Female Institute, Mrs. Eyster, principal, closed on the 25th ult., the exercises of the graduating class attracting a large audience. The members of the graduating class—Miss Mary Julia Breidenbaugh, Miss Irene Danner, and Miss Julia Stammers—with other pupils, read creditable compositions. Miss Julia Stammers read the valedictory.

Abandoned: On Wednesday morning, a mulatto child, apparently but two or three days old, was found at the door of the house of James Wilson, (colored) on the Chambersburg road, near town. It was almost entirely naked. The matter is being investigated. In the meantime, we understand the child has been taken charge of by William Cuff, colored.

Presentation.—Mr. Sheely's Normal school closed on the 25th ult., with the usual interesting exercises. The students, through Mr. John Myers, presented Mr. Sheely with a handsome Silver Caster, from Soper and McCartney's, Mr. Myers making a neat presentation speech and Mr. Sheely responding; after which the whole party adjourned to Mr. Gruel's to partake of ice cream and other good things.

The Fourth: Saturday was observed in this place in honor of the "Fourth." The Dedication ceremonies of the 1st and other exercises of the week had engrossed the attention of our people, and there was no public demonstration. The Zouaves and the Gettysburg band were out in the morning—the former firing salutes and the latter discoursing capital music—"Young America" who didn't have a chance to figure in the Dedication ceremonies, had Saturday pretty much to themselves, and from early morn to dewy eve, we had an incessant pop-pop of pistols, crackers, squibs and powder.

Married. Chronister-Myers. On the 27th ult., by Rev. D. M. Black-welder, Mr. David L. Chronister to Miss Elizabeth Myers, both of Lattimore township.

Landwehr-Stock. On the 22nd ult., by Rev. Father Blanche, of St. Peter's church, Philadelphia, Mr. John Landwehr, of Philadelphia, to Miss Isabella Stock, of Gettysburg.

ERA OF PACIFIC
AHEAD FOR U. S.

Seattle, Wash., July 10 (AP)—A post-war "era of the Pacific" marked by vast international airlines and communications systems through areas now thinly populated is forecast by Vice President Henry A. Wallace.

In a nationwide broadcast yesterday on his return from China and Siberian Russia, Wallace asserted "trade with Russia and China will help keep the factories of America busy in the days that lie ahead," and said he was "convinced that a main area of development after this war x x x will be in the new world of the north Pacific and eastern Asia."

He was in Seattle only briefly to make his address, then left for Washington, D. C., where he said he would report to the President Tuesday.

"The new frontier extends from Minneapolis via the coast states and Alaska through Siberia and China all the way to central Asia," he said. "Here are vast resources of minerals and manpower to be developed by democratic, peaceful methods—the methods not of exploitation, but on the contrary the more profitable method of creating higher living standards for hundreds of millions of people."

Sees Peace Ahead

During his seven weeks travels, Wallace said he saw virtually no likelihood of postwar internecine strife in China, and said:

"Personally I am convinced China and the USSR will take the necessary steps to ensure continuing peace and to promote the cultural and commercial exchanges among the nations of the Pacific to the benefit of all."

Wallace said he brought the personal thanks of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek to Rep. Warren G. Magnuson (D-Wash.) and President Roosevelt for the repeal of the Chinese Exclusion act. Magnuson sponsored the repeal measure which, Chiang said, "gives us face in the Orient."

ALL HOME CANNERS!

If we all pitch in, 1944 will see the greatest food production in our history.

But that will require your help.

It's up to you: 1. grow every ounce of food you possibly can; 2. use all the food you grow; 3. can your food by the proper and safe methods.

Every ounce of home-canned food is urgently needed. Your Government begs you not only to match what you did last year but, if possible, to better your 1943 record.

Put up fruits and tomatoes by the boiling-water bath method—a safe and satisfactory method for these foods.

But before you begin your 1944 canning of all other vegetables, Good Housekeeping wants to tell you how to avoid a danger that may occur in home-canned food—a danger recognized by many authorities, including the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

That danger is botulinus food poisoning!

Botulinus poisoning comes from bacteria that live in the soil and cling to vegetables. It is rare—but it isn't confined to just a few parts of the country, as some people think.

Botulinus germs may be on the food you can. They must be destroyed. Whenever these bacteria are present in the food and are not destroyed during the canning process, they gradually produce a toxin which is poisonous.

It takes hotter-than-boiling heat to kill botulinus germs. Neither hot-water bath nor open-kettle canning provides enough heat to destroy them. That is why we advise: the only safe way to can low-acid vegetables—which means all vegetables except tomatoes—is by the correct use of a pressure cooker!

If you don't already own a pressure cooker, you'll be glad to know that the Government is allowing the manufacture of 400,000 new cookers for sale this summer, without priorities.

If you can't buy a pressure cooker, borrow your neighbor's . . . or perhaps you'll find one available through a community canning group. If not, form your own community group, and buy one. To be safe, don't can low-acid vegetables

YANKEES STAB 4-MILE DRIVE NEAR VOLTERRA

By NOLAN NORGARD
Rome, July 10 (AP)—Overcoming dogged enemy resistance, American infantrymen who captured the German stronghold of Volterra yesterday have knifed forward another four miles and driven a significant wedge in the German defenses from the so-called "Gothic Line," Allied headquarters announced today.

The action of the Doughboys in driving the Nazis from Volterra was described officially as a setback to the enemy's intention of imposing the maximum delay on the Fifth Army's drive toward the Arno river, in which are situated the cities of Florence and Pisa.

Progress, however, remained slow along the entire Italian front as the Germans continued to mass guns and troops and to fight desperately from every vantage point.

On the west coast, an Allied spokesman said, American troops made an advance of unspecified distance toward Livorno (Leghorn) despite heavy enemy fire of all kinds and widespread demolition. The troops in that sector were last reported only 10 miles from the big port.

Other Advances

Another American force moved up to attack Pomaja, eight miles inland and 14 miles southeast of Livorno. This village is astride the important north-south highway. Lajatico, 21 miles east of Livorno, was threatened by another thrust.

In a brisk battle north of Rosignano, the Americans took 20 prisoners. Northwest of Castellina they killed 20 and captured 22 in close quarter fighting.

Elements of eight German divisions have been identified in the line facing the Fifth Army. Among them are the 26th SS regiment and the Ninth Panzer Grenadier regiment.

Supported by 20 tanks, the Germans launched a strong counter-attack against the French in the vicinity of Ramza, 8½ miles east of Volterra, and heavy fighting raged in that section.

In the Apennines, the Eighth Army captured Pietralunga and repulsed two strong night counter-attacks. In the upper Tiber valley, a gain of five miles was recorded as the British mopped up Montone and Carpi and pushed on some eight miles northeast of Umbertide.

DeGaulle Pleased With Conference

Washington, July 10 (AP)—General Charles De Gaulle, representing his conversations with President Roosevelt, said he was particularly pleased with the "principal object" of creating a better understanding, announced today he would move his capital from Algiers to liberated French territory as soon as possible.

"I had very broad and frank conversations with President Roosevelt," De Gaulle told a press conference, adding that he was taking away with him "the best possible impression from my stay in the capital of the United States."

The French leader said he explained to the president "as well as I could, how France, gradually emerging from her temporary misfortune, intends to participate with her Allies, at her rightful place, first in the war and then in the life of the world at peace."

De Gaulle said President Roosevelt spoke to him of American responsibilities for the war and for the peace "with a breadth of view, a knowledge of the problems, and an idealism which particularly impressed me."

Cop Headquarters Safe Burglarized

New York, July 10 (AP)—An embarrassing mystery of a burglarized safe in police headquarters deepened today as a young war worker, who said he was so much in love he forgot about finding a batch of war bonds strown on a subway platform, turned up voluntarily with part of the loot.

Max Bernstein, 29, told police that on July 1 he found the bonds and a tin box holding two pennies, pocketed the bonds and cash and then gave the bulky certificates—worth $380—to his girl to carry in her purse. He said he intended to take them to police headquarters, but forgot.

During a date with her last night, he said, he got the bonds back and then went to headquarters annex where he told a policeman: "I think I've got the stolen bonds."

Meanwhile police continued to look for the burglar who had the temerity to enter headquarters and remove the bonds and $402.75 in cash.

DRIVER DOZES

Hanover police reported that the car of Ivan Legore, Hanover, parked in front of his home, was struck Sunday by a machine driven by Guy C. Haversock, Abbotstown. Haversock said he dozed at the wheel.

Service movie theaters at posts and camps in the United States are estimated to have an annual attendance of over 180,000,000.

Chapter 6
Even if she lived to a ripe old age, Louise knew she would never forget their inglorious homecoming. Never before had she been so keenly aware that they were living at the "wrong end" of Washington Avenue. Never before had she cared. She had taken their financial reverses in her stride, had accepted the situation with good grace and a firm resolve to make the best of things.

"I don't care now, either," she told herself defiantly, as the cab turned a corner into Washington Avenue. "It's the best we can do—and if there's anything I hate it's a snob. Mother's not a snob, either. It's just that she's proud. Poor Mother."

Louise tried to tell herself that she was different. But she had to confess that she was beginning to share her mother's misgivings. She had begun to worry about what Angel would think. Certainly it was a terrific let-down from Forest Hills with its swank apartment houses, charming cottages, well-kept lawns and gay tennis courts, to a cold-water railroad flat in Brooklyn. Angel, who loved attractive surroundings, and who should have had them as a background for her beauty and charm, would have good reason to be shocked.

As they drew near the block where they lived, Louise could see the old brownstone house with its tiers of baby windows, its ornate mid-Victorian cornices, and the curate's store beneath it. It was one of a row of eight-family houses, all precisely alike. In the early afternoon sunlight the crowded street looked even more commonplace than usual.

"If only they wouldn't sit on the sidewalks, and allow their children to play in the streets," thought Louise—and was instantly ashamed of herself. Where else could these people sit? Where else could their children play? In dark, smelly apartments—like the Malones'? No, they couldn't, she decided. "And they're the lucky ones. They can sit on the sidewalks in the sunshine and let themselves go. We can't because we've got pride—false pride."

Louise, her face crimson, turned to look at the others in the cab. But the three women on the back seat were watching Baby Jeanne, who had reawakened and was beginning to whimper.

A crowd had gathered in front of the fish store, which was directly under the Malones' apartment. Pennants in myriad colors had been strung across the sidewalk in a festive effect. The usual display of live fish in the window had been augmented by a giant horseshoe of artificial roses. Across it was a red sash banner on which the word "Success" was printed in flamboyant gilt letters. A man with a megaphone stood in the doorway inviting people to come in, and announcing that prizes would be given to all who bought fish.

"Strictly fresh fish," he intoned in a sing-song voice. "We catch 'em. You eat 'em. You take your pick—and we'll be right in front of your eyes."

Louise closed her eyes to shut out the spectacle. "The We-catch-'em Fish Store is having another one of its grand openings," she groaned. "They would pick today!"

The driver brought the cab to a sudden stop. "What address did you say, Miss?" he queried. Louise didn't answer, and he repeated the question before Martha stammered: "Just pull up in front of the—fish store, driver. Well!" She stopped, unable to go on.

"Oh, Mother," cried Angel, "must we have fish today? If there's anything I hate, it's fish."

"The very smell of fish makes me sick," announced Miss Larkin, making a wry face.

"You'll probably be smelling it a lot from now on, my pet," thought Louise, opening her eyes and waiting for Martha to answer. But Martha didn't say anything. She was sitting there clutching her purse with nervous fingers, her face crimson, her eyes turned away. The cab had stopped now and the driver had begun to take out the bags.

"Well, it looks like it's up to me to break the bad news," Louise reflected, steeling herself for the ordeal.

"We're not buying fish, darlings," she said, trying to make her voice sound casual and gay. "We live here—upstairs, over the fish store. You get used to the smell after you live with it for a while."

There! She had said it. She managed a feeble grin, but she did not look at the others.

She didn't need to look at her sister to know the effect of her words. Angel's incredulous, "Oh, no, Mother!" was commentary enough. She knew without looking that Angel was staring at Martha accusingly, blind to the appeal in Martha's anxious eyes.

She would not look at Miss Larkin, for fear of what her own eyes might reveal. That woman's disdainful snort had been far more expressive than words. In fact, it was downright insulting, Louise decided. Angel's wall of disappointment had been cruel but quite understandable. But Miss Larkin's snort—well, that was different. It was practically an invitation to battle. Before she could restrain herself, Louise was saying, her head held high:

"As a matter of fact, we like it—living over a fish store."

Chapter 7
As they entered the house the smell of disinfectant greeted their nostrils. There were puddles of water on the linoleum-covered floor, while mops and pails and cleaning rags barred the way to the staircase. Mrs. Grogan, the janitress, was doing her weekly cleaning. She was down on her knees now, scrubbing the stairs and mulling to herself the inevitable pail of beer beside her. Her hair hung in untidy wisps over her shoulder, and a bungalow apron, at least three sizes too small, barely covered her broad back.

"Oh, Mrs. Grogan," called Martha. "Mrs. Grogan!" she repeated in a louder voice. "We'd like to get up stairs, if you don't mind."

But Mrs. Grogan went right on with her mulling and her scrubbing. Obviously she hadn't heard. Every so often she would stop scrubbing, take a swig of beer from the pail, then return to her work with renewed vigor if not speed.

Finally Baby Jeanne stirred in Miss Larkin's arms, and began to cry at the top of her voice. Mrs. Grogan got up laboriously, turned around and stared at the little group at the foot of the stairs.

"Holy Mother of God!" she exclaimed. She made her way down the steps, scrub brush and beer pail in hand. She looked at Angel curiously, then turned to stare at Miss Larkin. Suddenly she sped the baby.

"Bless my soul, if it ain't a baby!" She leaned over and peered into Baby Jeanne's face. "Is it yours?" she asked Miss Larkin.

Miss Larkin flushed and shook her head, and Martha raised her voice to a shout to explain: "It's my little grandchild, Mrs. Grogan. And this," she added, laying a hand on Angel's arm, "is my daughter Angel. They've come to stay with us for a while."

Miss Larkin advanced and tried to go up the stairs, but Mrs. Grogan's broad frame was blocking the way. "Would you mind letting us pass?" Miss Larkin shouted. "You— you make me sick!"

Mrs. Grogan did not budge an inch. "Oh, so your little grandchild's sick," she said, shaking her head dolefully. "It's the flies, most likely—though you never can tell. Have you tried givin' him sheepball tea? I had six of 'em and I buried 'em all, God rest their souls."

But Miss Larkin was already halfway up the stairs, Martha and Angel close behind her.

Louise leaned against the newel post at the foot of the stairs, the luggage around her as a saxophone upstairs gave a couple of preliminary notes and swung into Paper Doll, while a dog howled. Bobby, 17, youngest of the Malones, was practicing. And Buster the dog, having no ear for music, was raising his voice in protest.

Bobby would have to put his saxophone away now. It would annoy Miss Larkin and keep Baby Jeanne awake. He might even have to get rid of Buster, because Angel was afraid of dogs. Martha had intimated as much this morning. And then—what would happen to Bobby?

"Why, Bobby won't have anything," thought Louise. "He hasn't even got a room to himself—now. He's given that over to Angel. He's just got a cot in the kitchen, a drawer in Mother's dresser, and a couple of books in the hall closet."

She heard the apartment door open, and the saxophone stopped playing. She heard Buster's gleeful yelps as he welcomed Martha; heard him welcoming the others, accepting them as friends because Martha had brought them. She heard Angel scream, heard her saying:

"He'll jump on me, Mother! He'll ruin my nylon. Take him away, Bobby. Take him away!"

"He won't hurt you, Angel. Down, Buster! You're a good dog, aren't you, old boy? See—he only wanted to make friends."

"Don't let the brute come near me!" That was Miss Larkin's voice, loud and defiant. "I'm not making friends with a dog." There was a patter of feet. Then: "Scat—you!"

Chapter 8
Louise looked at the others in the cab. But the three women on the back seat were watching Baby Jeanne, who had reawakened and was beginning to whimper.

A crowd had gathered in front of the fish store, which was directly under the Malones' apartment. Pennants in myriad colors had been strung across the sidewalk in a festive effect. The usual display of live fish in the window had been augmented by a giant horseshoe of artificial roses. Across it was a red sash banner on which the word "Success" was printed in flamboyant gilt letters. A man with a megaphone stood in the doorway inviting people to come in, and announcing that prizes would be given to all who bought fish.

"Strictly fresh fish," he intoned in a sing-song voice. "We catch 'em. You eat 'em. You take your pick—and we'll be right in front of your eyes."

Louise closed her eyes to shut out the spectacle. "The We-catch-'em Fish Store is having another one of its grand openings," she groaned. "They would pick today!"

The driver brought the cab to a sudden stop. "What address did you say, Miss?" he queried. Louise didn't answer, and he repeated the question before Martha stammered: "Just pull up in front of the—fish store, driver. Well!" She stopped, unable to go on.

"Oh, Mother," cried Angel, "must we have fish today? If there's anything I hate, it's fish."

"The very smell of fish makes me sick," announced Miss Larkin, making a wry face.

"You'll probably be smelling it a lot from now on, my pet," thought Louise, opening her eyes and waiting for Martha to answer. But Martha didn't say anything. She was sitting there clutching her purse with nervous fingers, her face crimson, her eyes turned away. The cab had stopped now and the driver had begun to take out the bags.

"Well, it looks like it's up to me to break the bad news," Louise reflected, steeling herself for the ordeal.

"We're not buying fish, darlings," she said, trying to make her voice sound casual and gay. "We live here—upstairs, over the fish store. You get used to the smell after you live with it for a while."

There! She had said it. She managed a feeble grin, but she did not look at the others.

She didn't need to look at her sister to know the effect of her words. Angel's incredulous, "Oh, no, Mother!" was commentary enough. She knew without looking that Angel was staring at Martha accusingly, blind to the appeal in Martha's anxious eyes.

She would not look at Miss Larkin, for fear of what her own eyes might reveal. That woman's disdainful snort had been far more expressive than words. In fact, it was downright insulting, Louise decided. Angel's wall of disappointment had been cruel but quite understandable. But Miss Larkin's snort—well, that was different. It was practically an invitation to battle. Before she could restrain herself, Louise was saying, her head held high:

"As a matter of fact, we like it—living over a fish store."

Chapter 9
As they entered the house the smell of disinfectant greeted their nostrils. There were puddles of water on the linoleum-covered floor, while mops and pails and cleaning rags barred the way to the staircase. Mrs. Grogan, the janitress, was doing her weekly cleaning. She was down on her knees now, scrubbing the stairs and mulling to herself the inevitable pail of beer beside her. Her hair hung in untidy wisps over her shoulder, and a bungalow apron, at least three sizes too small, barely covered her broad back.

"Oh, Mrs. Grogan," called Martha. "Mrs. Grogan!" she repeated in a louder voice. "We'd like to get up stairs, if you don't mind."

But Mrs. Grogan went right on with her mulling and her scrubbing. Obviously she hadn't heard. Every so often she would stop scrubbing, take a swig of beer from the pail, then return to her work with renewed vigor if not speed.

Finally Baby Jeanne stirred in Miss Larkin's arms, and began to cry at the top of her voice. Mrs. Grogan got up laboriously, turned around and stared at the little group at the foot of the stairs.

"Holy Mother of God!" she exclaimed. She made her way down the steps, scrub brush and beer pail in hand. She looked at Angel curiously, then turned to stare at Miss Larkin. Suddenly she sped the baby.

"Bless my soul, if it ain't a baby!" She leaned over and peered into Baby Jeanne's face. "Is it yours?" she asked Miss Larkin.

YANKEES STAB 4-MILE DRIVE NEAR VOLTERRA

By NOLAND NORGAARD

Rome, July 10 (AP)—Overcoming dogged enemy resistance, American infantrymen who captured the German stronghold of Volterra yesterday have knifed forward another four miles and driven a significant wedge in the German defenses fronting the so-called "Gothic Line." Allied headquarters announced today.

The action of the Doughboys in driving the Nazis from Volterra was described officially as a setback to the enemy's intention of imposing the maximum delay on the Fifth Army's drive toward the Arno river, in which are situated the cities of Florence and Pisa.

Progress, however, remained slow along the entire Italian front as the Germans continued to mass guns and troops and to fight desperately from every vantage point.

On the west coast, an Allied spokesman said, American troops made an advance of unspecified distance toward Livorno (Leghorn) despite heavy enemy fire of all kinds and widespread demolition. The troops in that sector were last reported only 10 miles from the big port.

Other Advances

Another American force moved up to attack Pomaja, eight miles inland and 14 miles southeast of Livorno. This village is astride the important north-south highway. LaJatico, 21 miles east of Livorno, was threatened by another thrust.

In a brisk battle north of Rosignano, the Americans took 80 prisoners. Northwest of Castellina they killed 20 and captured 22 in close quarter fighting.

Elements of eight German divisions have been identified in the line facing the Fifth Army. Among them are the 36th SS regiment and the Ninth Panzer Grenadier regiment.

Supported by 20 tanks, the Germans launched a strong counter-attack against the French in the vicinity of Ranza, 8 1/2 miles east of Volterra, and heavy fighting raged in that section.

In the Apennines, the Eighth Army captured Pietralunga and repulsed two strong night counter-attacks. In the upper Tiber valley, a gain of five miles was recorded as the British mopped up Montone and Carpi and pushed on some eight miles northeast of Umbertide.

DeGaulle Pleased With Conference

Washington, July 10 (AP)—General Charles De Gaulle, reporting his conversations with President Roosevelt, said he had attained the "principal object" of announcing a better understanding, created today he would move his capital from Algiers to liberated French territory as soon as possible.

"I had very broad and frank conversations with President Roosevelt," De Gaulle told a press conference, adding that he was taking away with him "the best possible impression from my stay in the capital of the United States."

The French leader said he explained to the president "as well as I could, how France, gradually emerging from her temporary misfortune, intends to participate with her Allies, at her rightful place, first in the war and then in the life of the world at peace."

De Gaulle said President Roosevelt spoke to him of American responsibilities for the war and for the peace "with a breadth of view, a knowledge of the problems, and an idealism which particularly impressed me."

Cop Headquarters Safe Burglarized

New York, July 10 (AP)—An embarrassing mystery of a burglarized safe in police headquarters deepened today as a young war worker, who said he was so much in love he forgot about finding a batch of war bonds strewn on a subway platform, turned up voluntarily with part of the loot.

Max Bernstein, 29, told police that on July 1 he found the bonds and a tin box holding two pennies, pocketed the bonds and cash and then gave the bulky certificates—worth $350—to his girl to carry in her purse. He said he intended to take them to police headquarters, but forgot.

During a date with her last night, he said, he got the bonds back and then went to headquarters annex where he told a policeman: "I think I've got the stolen bonds."

Meanwhile police continued to look for the burglar who had the temerity to enter headquarters and remove the bonds and $402.75 in cash.

DRIVER DOZES

Hanover police reported that the car of Ivan Legore, Hanover, parked in front of his home, was struck Sunday by a machine driven by Guy C. Haverstock, Abbotstown. Haverstock said he dozed at the wheel.

Service movie theaters at posts and camps in the United States are estimated to have an annual attendance of over 180,000,000.

Chapter 6

Even if she lived to a ripe old age, Louise knew she would never forget their inglorious homecoming. Never before had she been so keenly aware that they were living at the "wrong end" of Washington Avenue. Never before had she cared. She had taken their financial reverses in her stride, had accepted the situation with good grace and a firm resolve to make the best of things.

"I don't care now, either," she told herself defiantly, as the cab turned a corner into Washington Avenue. "It's the best we can do—and if there's anything I hate it's a snob. Mother's not a snob, either. It's just that she's proud. Poor Mother."

Louise tried to tell herself that she was different. But she had to confess that she was beginning to share her mother's misgivings. She had begun to worry about what Angel would think. Certainly it was a terrific let-down from Forest Hills with its swank apartment houses, charming cottages, well-kept lawns and gay tennis courts, to a cold-water railroad flat in Brooklyn.

Angel, who loved attractive surroundings, and who should have had them as a background for her beauty and charm, would have good reason to be shocked.

As they drew near the block where they lived, Louise could see the old brownstone house with its tiers of baby windows, its ornate mid-Victorian cornices, and the cut-rate stores beneath it. It was one of a row of eight-family houses, all precisely alike. In the early afternoon sunlight the crowded street looked even more commonplace than usual.

"If only they wouldn't sit on the sidewalks, and allow their children to play in the streets," thought Louise—and was instantly ashamed of herself. Where else could these people sit? Where else could their children play? In dark, smelly apartments—like the Malones? No, they couldn't, she decided. "And they're the lucky ones. They can sit on the sidewalks in the sunshine and let themselves go. We can't because we've got pride—false pride."

Louise, her face crimson, turned to look at the others in the cab. But the three women on the back seat were watching Baby Jeanne, who had reawakened and was beginning to whimper.

A crowd had gathered in front of the fish store, which was directly under the Malones' apartment. Pennants in myriad colors had been strung across the sidewalk in a festoon effect. The usual display of live fish in the window had been augmented by a giant horseshoe of artificial roses. Across it was a red satin banner on which the word "Success" was printed in flamboyant gilt letters. A man with a megaphone stood in the doorway inviting people to come in, and announcing that prizes would be given to all who bought fish.

"Strictly fresh fish," he intoned in a sing-song voice. "We catch 'em. You eat 'em. You take your pick—and we'll 'em right in front of your eyes."

Louise closed her eyes to shut out the spectacle. "The We-catch-'em Fish Store is having another one of its grand openings," she groaned. "They would pick today!"

The driver brought the cab to a sudden stop. "What address did you say, Miss?" he queried. Louise didn't answer, and he repeated the question before Martha stammered:

"Just pull up in front of the—er—fish store, driver. We'll—"

She stopped, unable to go on. "Oh, Mother," cried Angel, "must we have fish today? If there's anything I hate, it's fish."

"The very smell of fish makes me sick," announced Miss Larkin, making a wry face.

"You'll probably be smelling it a lot from now on, my pet," thought Louise, opening her eyes and waiting for Martha to answer. But Martha didn't say anything. She was sitting there clutching her purse with nervous fingers, her face crimson, her eyes turned away. The cab had stopped now and the driver had begun to take out the bags.

"Well, it looks like it's up to me to break the bad news," Louise reflected, steeling herself for the ordeal.

"We're not buying fish, darlings," she said, trying to make her voice sound casual and gay. "We live here—upstairs, over the fish store. You get used to the smell after you live with it for a while."

There! She had said it. She managed a feeble grin, but she did not look at the others.

She didn't need to look at her sister to know the effect of her words. Angel's incredulous. "Oh, no, Mother!" was commentary enough. She knew without looking that Angel was staring at Martha accusingly, blind to the appeal in Martha's anxious eyes.

She would not look at Miss Larkin, for fear of what her own eyes might reveal. That woman's disdainful snort had been far more expressive than words. "Bless my soul, if it ain't a baby!" She leaned over and peered into Baby Jeanne's face. "Is it yours?" she asked Miss Larkin.

Miss Larkin flushed and shook her head, and Martha raised her voice to a shout to explain:

"It's my little grandchild, Mrs. Grogan. And this," she added, laying a hand on Angel's arm, "is my daughter Angel. They've come to stay with us for a while."

Miss Larkin advanced and tried to go up the stairs, but Mrs. Grogan's broad frame was blocking the way. "Would you mind letting us pass?" Miss Larkin shouted. "You—you make me sick!"

Mrs. Grogan did not budge an inch. "Oh, so your little grandchild's sick," she said, shaking her head dolefully. "It's the hives, most likely—though you never can tell. Have you tried givin' him sheepball tea? I had six of 'em and I buried 'em all, God rest their souls."

Three Unhurt In Airplane Crash

Huntingdon, Pa., July 10 (AP)—Three occupants of a private cabin plane being flown from Washington, D. C., to Erie escaped serious injury yesterday when the ship made a crash landing and overturned in a wheat field 20 miles south of here. The plane was piloted by Maj. Elmer J. Devore of Washington, who said his oil line "froze" when the plane was 3,000 feet in the air. Devore and his wife were unhurt. His mother-in-law, Mrs. E. G. Bloomgren, 69, suffered minor injuries.

Animal consumption of wheat in the U. S. is estimated at about 500 million bushels a year.

DODGERS LOSE 13TH IN ROW; YANKS WIN TWO

By JOE REICHLER
(By The Associated Press)

Manager Leo Durocher of the Brooklyn Dodgers seems to be on the spot again. His position, shaky the past few years, has been made more precarious than ever by the current losing streak of the Dodgers, which reached 13 officially yesterday.

Few managers have survived for long such a losing streak, especially in baseball where they take their losing seriously. A nine-game losing streak, which was prolonged to 13, put the skids under Jimmy Wilson of the Chicago Cubs at the start of the season.

Just a year ago today, Durocher's job was jeopardized by a clubhouse rebellion. Several players objected to his handling of a flareup that involved Bobo Newsom and Arky Vaughan. Leo hurled that obstacle, with the backing of President Branch Rickey. During the winter, Rickey signed the stormy petrel to a contract which can be terminated at five minutes notice.

Brooklyn's 13th successive loss, which matched the season's low set by the Cubs, was handed to them by the Pittsburgh Pirates, 10-1 in the opener of a doubleheader. They almost tied the longest losing streak in the history of the club when they trailed 9-7 in the nightcap, called at the end of eight innings by Pennsylvania's 6:50 curfew law. The game will be completed later.

After losing seven out of nine to Detroit, the New York Yankees made an about face and swept a war relief double header from the Tigers, 4-3 and 8-2 before 33,482, who paid $38,102.50. The double victory moved the Yankees to within a game of the second place Boston Red Sox.

Fair Exchange

The league leading St. Louis Browns and the Washington Senators exchanged snarls. The Browns, behind Newman Shirley's two-hit pitching, won the first, 10-0, and the Senators, with Dutch Leonard pitching five-hit ball, took the second, 5-0.

The Red Sox and Cleveland split their double header, the Indians winning the opener, 8-2 and the Red Sox the second, 4-2. Bobby Doerr of the Red Sox became the first American league batter to make 100 hits. Pat Seerey of the Indians and Bob Johnson of the Sox each hit his eighth homer of the year.

Frank Hayes banged his 10th homer as the Chicago White Sox and the Philadelphia Athletics divided their twin-bill, the White Sox taking the opener, 4-3, for Bill Dietrich's 10th victory, and the A's annexing the finale, 8-2.

Cubs Leave Cellar

The St. Louis Cardinals handed the Boston Braves a double blanking, with Mort Cooper winning his 10th game in the opener, 1-0, as Stan Musial and Brother Walker combined to score the lone run off Jim Tobin. Harry Brecheen gained his seventh win in the nightcap, 9-0.

The Chicago Cubs climbed out of the cellar as they defeated the New York Giants twice, 6-2 and 1-0. Claude Passeau shaded Bill Voiselle in the second game as Andy Pafko singled with the bases loaded in the sixth inning.

The Cincinnati Reds moved to within five percentage points of second place with a double victory over Philadelphia 9-5 and 7-5. Woody Williams made six hits for the Reds.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
New York, July 10 (AP)—By a roundabout route comes this report from Gib Sandefer, Hardin-Simmons U. athletic manager who now is a Red Cross field director with General "Vinegar" Joe Stilwell's forces in Burma. . . . Gib claims to have the largest hat in India (it would make all the ten gallon toppers in Texas turn green with envy) and the longest short snorter in the world (1,000 feet). . . . "Told 'Uncle Joe' he could pick 25 of his good Chinese boys and we would bring them back to the campus," Sandefer wrote. "Have 10 British boys coming for Merle Evans' cowboy band, three French girls from North Africa who play native instruments, and plenty of good GI's that will be ready for our Sammy Baugh-Bulldog Turner, our Frank Kimbrough-Clark Jarnagin or our Warren Woodson-Jewell Wallace coaching combination after the war. We will make it an Allied university after this is over, and all get to understand each other better, or we will have another in 25 years."

Chances are that Sandefer will have a private war on his hands in Texas if he goes through with such long-range recruiting, and maybe another if he tries to realize his dream of getting those two Sweetwater, Tex., ranchers, Baugh and Turner, to coach at Abilene while the pro grid customers still want to see them.

RED HOT UMP

Since that Baltimore ball park fire last week, they're calling Umpire Roy Van Graffan "Fireman." It was the second time a ball park had burned down after Roy had officiated a game and each time he lost his blue uniform, which is a hard thing to replace these days. . . . Van Graffan also was umpire at Newark, Aug. 18, 1923, just before Harrison field was destroyed. . . . However, that doesn't explain why Graffan seldom fires a player out of a game. He went four years in the international league without chasing anyone.

MONDAY MATINEE

The Rev. Harold J. Martin, head of the non-operating Canadian-American league, has organized the St. Lawrence interscholastic summer league to keep his hand in. Six teams will play through July. . . . The Iowa Seabawks baseball team lost seven good players, including Bob Steuber, last week and will lose Dick Wakefield and Price Brookfield in the near future. But it also acquired four new major leaguers, Ed Welland, Don Yohs, Bill Baker and Ned Harris. . . . Dolph Camilli is leading the Pacific Coast league in batting and another old Dodger idol, Babe Herman, would be on top if he had played enough games. It's a wonder Branch Rickey hasn't tried to bring them back. . . . Early in May the Keesler Field, Miss., athletic dept. obtained 25 new sets of golf clubs. By June 30, 1,592 enlisted men had checked them out to play.

JUG M'SPADEN AND NELSON WIN

Minneapolis, Minn., July 10 (AP)—Being something of a putting sensation is fairly new for Jug McSpaden, who dropped from the winter golf tour three years ago because he couldn't putt.

At that time, the Philadelphia pro became affectionately known among his colleagues as "Jerk" McSpaden. He got the shakes when he got a putter in his hand.

"Hours of practice finally snapped me out of it," said Jug "and then, too, I patched up a putter with an extra heavy club head—and the added weight seemed to help my touch."

Mostly because of his magic putter, McSpaden has cornered the title-winning market this season—taking five tournaments outright and teaming with Byron Nelson, his rival for the 1944 champion of champions honors, to win the Golden Valley four-ball invitational championship yesterday.

The Nelson-McSpaden combine finished the 126-hole, match play Marathon with a plus of 13 count in the scoring system—a three point edge over the second place team of Bill Kaiser-Hamilton. The twin cities townsfolk of Les Boistad and Joe Coria finished a surprising third, followed in order by Jimmy Hines-Willie Goggin, Sam Byrd-Johnny Revolta, Pvt. Harbert-Mike Turnesa, Harry Cooper-Ellsworth Vines and Leut. Ben Hogan-Toney Penna.

BUCKY WALTERS LIKELY HURLER FOR NATIONALS

By JACK HAND
Pittsburgh, July 10 (AP)—Bucky Walters of Cincinnati looms as the probable National league starting pitcher in the 12th annual all-star game tomorrow night at Forbes Field with Marse Joe McCarthy of the American leaguers expected to choose between Hank Borowy of the New York Yankees and Tex Hughson of the Boston Red Sox.

Pending definite announcement from Skipper Billy Southworth of the Nationals and McCarthy, baseball men figured today the two pitchers would lead with the ace right-handers. Walters has a 14-3 win record for the Reds. Borowy has won 11 and dropped 4 and Hughson boasts a fancy 13-3 mark.

Sunday Eliminations

With Lefty Max Lanier of the Cards out of action for 10 days due to an Army injury, Southworth is expected to follow Walters with Rip Sewell of the host Pittsburgh club and Nate Andrews of the Braves in an attempt to smash the junior circuit's 6-year win streak.

Bob Munciel of the Browns and Hal Newhouse of the Tigers are available for late duty with the McCarthy clan and Bobo Newsom of the A's may get a chance to strut his stuff, before a sell-out crowd that will approach 40,000 and dump $160,000 into the bat and ball fund for servicemen.

Three American league hurlers, Paul (Dizzy) Trout of the Tigers, Dutch Leonard of the Senators and Orval Grove of the White Sox, and two national chuckers, Jim Tobin and Al Javery of the Braves, were practically eliminated from consideration by working Sunday games. It is not likely that any of the qu-

while Reaser did the honors for Utica in the second.

Frank Gallardo connected with two aboard to aid Williamsport in its defeat of Albany's Len Gilmore, who suffered his second loss against 13 wins. Vic Bernhart homered for the Senators in the same tilt.

in a series of ads on post-war opportunities

The question of post-war jobs—especially for returning veterans—is a big one and a live one. It will get more so as the war comes nearer its end.

Our own job security plan for Esso Marketers' employees now in uniform went into operation the day after Pearl Harbor. It has worked so well for so long that we want to pass our experience along.

In general, it is based on the idea that we are saving his place for our fighting man while he's away, whether he volunteered, was drafted, or was called up as a reservist. Chief features of the plan are these . . .

1. Each employee who has been with us a year or longer is given two months' salary as he enters the armed forces.
2. His dependents receive monthly payments from the company while he is away—up to half of his former company pay.
3. Each employee has been assured by letter from our company president that his old job—or another as good or better—will be waiting for him. Experience gained in the Armed Forces may result in his immediate advancement.
4. His rights in company retirement and benefit plans are protected while he is away.

DETAILS of the plan have been put into a booklet which we shall be glad to send you.*

Soon we will announce in this newspaper further plans for making some good new jobs in the oil business after the war.

As we see it today, next to winning the war itself, nothing is more important than the matter of post-war jobs.

SPORT SHORTS

Philadelphia, July 10 (AP)—Young Joey Pirrone, brother of Paul who beat Mickey Walker, Ken Overlin and other topnotchers some 10 years ago, makes his Philadelphia debut tonight in a scheduled 10-rounder with the hard-punching Trenton, N. J., lightweight Ike Williams.

Promoter Herman Taylor estimates 8,000 will visit the Arena stadium to see what the Cleveland youngster can do against Williams, who has won eight in a row since lightweight champion Bob Montgomery knocked him out last January 25.

State College, Pa., July 10 (AP)—Six sports have been dropped at Pennsylvania State college in a war-prompted economy move. Nell M. Fleming, graduate manager, announced today.

The sports that were cut for the duration were cross-country, swimming, ice hockey, gymnastics, tennis and golf. Rifle-shooting and fencing had previously been dropped.

tel will be used with only one day's rest in relief emergency.

Possible Lineup

Unless Southworth calls in the Phil's Ken Raffensberger the Americans will see all right-handed hurling. With that in mind, McCarthy's lineup may read like this: Lefty McQuinn, Browns, first base; Bobby Doerr, Red Sox, second base; Vern Stephens, Browns, short-stop; Ken Keltner, Indians, third base and Traurnan Tucker, White Sox, Stan Spence, Senators, and Bob Johnson, Red outfield; with either Frankie Hayes, Athletic's, or Rick Ferrell, Senators, catching.

Southworth can use Phil Cavarretta of the Cubs at first base when McCarthy is using a righthander or Frank McCormick of the Reds if a Southpaw is on the hill. Connie Ryan of the Braves is the likely second baseman with Martin Marion of the Cards and Eddie Miller of the Reds sharing shortstop.

ROCKS GAIN ON HAGERSTOWN

(By The Associated Press)

The Wilmington Blue Rocks moved up within a game of league-leading Hagerstown after taking a doubleheader from the Owls last night.

The Blue Rocks, unleashing a sudden spurt of power which carried them well up the league, blasted out an 18 to 2 victory in the opener, and then spurred ahead to win the nightcap 13 to 1. The Rocks bunched 22 hits to win the opener.

Allentown and York split even, the Cardinals taking the first game 12 to 7 from York, and the White Roses coming back in the second half to win 11 to 8 in seven-innings. The Allentown victory was the sixth straight win for Pitcher Pete Mazzar.

Red Roses Win

In the nightcap, Körn, Shope went the full route for York, but weakened in the final inning when the Cardinals scored four times on homers by George Davis and Johnny Cappa. Bill Homan homered for York in each game, while Ollie Vanek chalked up one for Allentown in the first game with two aboard.

The Lancaster Red Roses swept both ends of a double bill against Trenton's Packers, 6 to 2 and 12 to 8. Jack Schmidt held the packers to four hits in the seven-inning opener.

A batting spurt for the Red Roses climaxed the nightcap as they walloped Trenton's Stan Zlotnick for two runs and then added five more off his ninth-inning successor, Red Kaiser.

Predict Nelson Will Override Military

Washington, July 10 (AP)—Chairman Donald M. Nelson's colleagues in the War Production board predict he will override military objections and sign into effect his orders permitting limited civilian goods production.

They say, moreover, Nelson will not "water down" or compromise the announced program, which would let industry start preparations for reconversion and, while the war continues, devote the men, machines and material not needed for munitions to the manufacture of consumer goods.

In general, it is based on the idea that we are saving his place for our fighting man while he's away, whether he volunteered, was drafted, or was called up as a reservist. Chief features of the plan are these . . .

1. Each employee who has been with us a year or longer is given two months' salary as he enters the armed forces.
2. His dependents receive monthly payments from the company while he is away—up to half of his former company pay.
3. Each employee has been assured by letter from our company president that his old job—or another as good or better—will be waiting for him. Experience gained in the Armed Forces may result in his immediate advancement.
4. His rights in company retirement and benefit plans are protected while he is away.

DETAILS of the plan have been put into a booklet which we shall be glad to send you.*

Soon we will announce in this newspaper further plans for making some good new jobs in the oil business after the war.

As we see it today, next to winning the war itself, nothing is more important than the matter of post-war jobs.

DODGERS LOSE 13TH IN ROW; YANKS WIN TWO

By JOE REICHLER
(By The Associated Press)

Manager Leo Durocher of the Brooklyn Dodgers seems to be on the spot again. His position, shaky the past few years, has been made more precarious than ever by the current losing streak of the Dodgers, which reached 13 officially yesterday.

Few managers have survived for long such a losing streak, especially in flatbush where they take their baseball seriously. A nine-game losing streak, which was prolonged to 13, put the skids under Jimmy Wilson of the Chicago Cubs at the start of the season.

Just a year ago today, Durocher's job was jeopardized by a clubhouse rebellion. Several players objected to his handling of a flareup that involved Ebbie Newsum and Arky Vaughan. Leo hurled that obstacle, with the backing of President Branch Rickey. During the winter, Rickey signed the stormy petrel to a contract which can be terminated at five minutes notice.

Brooklyn's 13th successive loss, which matched the season's low set by the Cubs, was handed to them by the Pittsburgh Pirates, 10-1 in the opener of a doubleheader. They almost tied the longest losing streak in the history of the club when they trailed 9-7 in the nightcap, called at the end of eight innings by Pennsylvania's 6:50 curfew law. The game will be completed later.

After losing seven out of nine to Detroit, the New York Yankees made an about face and swept a war relief double header from the Tigers, 4-3 and 8-2 before 33,482, who paid $38,102.50. The double victory moved the Yankees to within a game of the second place Boston Red Sox.

Fair Exchange

The league leading St. Louis Browns and the Washington Senators exchanged shutouts. The Browns, behind Newman Shirley's two-hit pitching, won the first, 10-0, and the Senators, with Dutch Leonard pitching five-hit ball, took the second, 5-0.

The Red Sox and Cleveland split their double header, the Indians winning the opener, 8-2 and the Red Sox the second, 4-2. Bobby Doerr of the Red Sox became the first American league batter to make 100 hits. Pat Seery of the Indians and Bob Johnson of the Sox each hit his eighth homer of the year.

Frank Hayes banged his 10th homer as the Chicago White Sox and the Philadelphia Athletics divided their twin-bill, the White Sox taking the opener, 4-3, for Bill Dietrich's 10th victory, and the A's annexing the finale, 8-2.

Cubs Leave Cellar

The St. Louis Cardinals handed the Boston Braves a double blanking, with Mort Cooper winning his 10th game in the opener, 1-0, as Stan Musial and Brother Walker combined to score the lone run off Jim Tobin. Harry Brecheen gained his seventh win in the nightcap, 9-0.

The Chicago Cubs climbed out of the cellar as they defeated the New York Giants twice, 6-2 and 1-0. Claude Passeau shaded Bill Voiselle in the second game as Andy Pafko singled with the bases loaded in the sixth inning.

The Cincinnati Reds moved to within five percentage points of second place with a double victory over Philadelphia 9-5 and 7-5. Woody Williams made six hits for the Reds.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
New York, July 10 (AP)—By a roundabout route comes this report from Gib Sandefer, Hardin-Simmons U. athletic manager who now is a Red Cross field director with General "Vinegar" Joe Stilwell's forces in Burma. Gib claims to have the largest hat in India (it would make all the ten gallon toppers in Texas turn green with envy) and the longest short snorter in the world (1,000 feet). "Told 'Uncle Joe' he could pick 25 of his good Chinese boys and we would bring them back to the campus," Sandefer wrote. "Have 10 British boys coming for Merle Evans' cowboy band, three French girls from North Africa who play native instruments, and plenty of good GI's that will be ready for our Sammy Baugh-Bulldog Turner, our Frank Kimbrough-Clark Jarnagin or our Warren Woodson-Jewell Wallace coaching combination after the war. We will make it an Allied university after this is over, and all get to understand each other better, or we will have another in 25 years."

Chances are that Sandefer will have a private war on his hands in Texas if he goes through with such long-range recruiting, and maybe another if he tries to realize his dream of getting those two Sweetwater, Tex., ranchers, Baugh and Turner, to coach at Abilene while the pro grid customers still want to see them.

RED HOT UMP

Since that Baltimore ball park fire last week, they're calling Umpire Roy Van Graflan "Fireman." It was the second time a ball park had burned down after Roy had officiated a game and each time he lost his blue uniform, which is a hard thing to replace these days. Van Graflan also was umpire at Newark, Aug. 18, 1923, just before Harrison field was destroyed. However, that doesn't explain why Graflan seldom fires a player out of a game. He went four years in the International league without chasing anyone.

MONDAY MATINEE

The Rev. Harold J. Martin, head of the non-operating Canadian-American league, has organized the St. Lawrence Interscholastic summer league to keep his hand in. Six teams will play through July. The Iowa Seahawks baseball team lost seven good players, including Bob Steuber, last week and will lose Dick Wakefield and Price Brookfield in the near future. But it also acquired four new major leaguers, Ed Weiland, Don Yohe, Bill Baker and Ned Harris. Dolph Camilli is leading the Pacific Coast league in batting and another old Dodger idol, Babe Herman, would be on top if he had played enough games. It's a wonder Branch Rickey hasn't tried to bring them back. Early in May the Keesler Field, Miss., athletic dept. obtained 25 new sets of golf clubs. By June 30, 1,592 enlisted men had checked them out to play.

JUG M'SPADEN AND NELSON WIN

Minneapolis, Minn., July 10 (AP)—Being something of a putting sensation is fairly new for Jug McSpaden, who dropped from the winter golf tour three years ago because he couldn't putt.

At that time, the Philadelphia pro became affectionately known among his colleagues as "Jerks" McSpaden. He got the shakes when he got a putter in his hand.

"Hours of practice finally snapped me out of it," said Jug. "And then, too, I patched up a putter with an extra heavy club head—and the added weight seemed to help my touch."

Mostly because of his magic putter, McSpaden has cornered the title-winning market this season—taking five tournaments outright and teaming with Byron Nelson, his rival for the 1944 champion of champions honors, to win the Golden Valley four-ball invitational championship yesterday.

The Nelson-McSpaden combine finished the 126-hole, match play Marathon with a plus of 13 count in the scoring system—a three point edge over the second place team of Bill Kaiser-Hamilton. The twin cities townsfolk of Les Bolstad and Joe Coria finished a surprising third, followed in order by Jimmy Hines—Willie Goggin, Sam Byrd—Johnny Revolta, Pvt. Herbert-Mike Turnesa, Harry Cooper—Ellsworth Vines and Lieut. Ben Hogan—Toney Penna.

The Marianas Islands were transferred from German ownership to Japanese mandate after World War I.

BUCKY WALTERS LIKELY HURLER FOR NATIONALS

By JACK HAND
Pittsburgh, July 10 (AP)—Bucky Walters of Cincinnati looms as the probable National league starting pitcher in the 12th annual all-star game tomorrow night at Forbes Field with Marse Joe McCarthy of the American leaguers expected to choose between Hank Borowy of the New York Yankees and Tex Hughson of the Boston Red Sox.

Pending definite announcement from Skipper Billy Southworth of the Nationals and McCarthy, baseball men figured today the two pilots would lead with the ace right-handers. Walters has a 14-3 win record for the Reds, Borowy has won 11 and dropped 4 and Hughson boasts a fancy 13-3 mark.

Sunday Eliminations

With Lefty Max Lanier of the Cards out of action for 10 days due to an Army injury, Southworth is expected to follow Walters with Rip Sewell of the host Pittsburgh club and Nate Andrews of the Braves in an attempt to smash the junior circuits 6-year win streak.

Bob Muncrief of the Browns and Hal Newhouse of the Tigers are available for late duty with the McCarthy clan and Bobo Newsum of the A's may get a chance to strut his stuff before a sell-out crowd that will approach 40,000 and dump $100,000 into the bat and ball fund for servicemen.

Three American league hurlers, Paul (Dizzy) Trout of the Tigers, Dutch Leonard of the Senators and Orval Grove of the White Sox, and two national chuckers, Jim Tobin and Al Javery of the Braves, were practically eliminated from consideration by working Sunday games. It is not likely that any of the quintet will be used with only one day's rest in relief emergency.

Possible Lineup

Unless Southworth calls in the Phils' Ken Raffensberger the Americans will see all right-handed hurling. With that in mind, McCarthy's lineup may read like this: Lefty McQuinn, Browns, first base; Bobby Doerr, Red Sox, second base; Vern Stephens, Browns, short-stop; Ken Keltner, Indians, third base and Thurman Tucker, White Sox, Stan Spence, Senators, and Bob Johnson, Red outfield; with either Frankie Hayes, Athletics, or Rick Ferrell, Senators, catching.

Southworth can use Phil Cavarretta of the Cubs at first base when McCarthy is using a righthander or Frank McCormick of the Reds if a Southpaw is on the hill. Connie Ryan of the Braves is the likely second baseman with Martin Marlon of the Cards and Eddie Miller of the Reds sharing shortstop.

Army Ordnance uses a powerful high explosive called PETN, a third more explosive than TNT, which is used in many types of aircraft bombs and ammunition.

While Reeser did the honors for Utica in the second.

Frank Gallardo connected with two aboard to aid Williamsport in its defeat of Albany's Len Gilmore, who suffered his second loss against 13 wins. Vic Barnhart homered for the Senators in the same tilt.

Frankie Hayes, Athletics, or Rick Ferrell, Senators, catching.

SPORT SHORTS

Philadelphia, July 10 (AP)—Young Joey Pirrone, brother of Paul who beat Mickey Walker, Ken Overlin and other topnotchers some 10 years ago, makes his Philadelphia debut tonight in a scheduled 10-rounder with the hard-punching Trenton, N. J., lightweight Ike Williams.

Promoter Herman Taylor estimates 8,000 will visit the Arena stadium to see what the Cleveland youngster can do against Williams, who has won eight in a row since lightweight champion Bob Montgomery knocked him out last January 25.

State College, Pa., July 10 (AP)—Six sports have been dropped at Pennsylvania State college in a war-prompted economy move. Neil M. Fleming, graduate manager announced today.

The sports that were cut for the duration were cross-country, swimming, ice hockey, gymnastics, tennis and golf. Rifle-shooting and fencing had previously been dropped.

in a series of ads on post-war opportunities

The question of post-war jobs—especially for returning veterans—is a big one and a live one. It will get more so as the war comes nearer its end.

Our own job security plan for Esso Marketers' employees now in uniform went into operation the day after Pearl Harbor. It has worked so well for so long that we want to pass our experience along.

LAURELS HOLD EASTERN LEAD

(By The Associated Press)

Eastern league batters were swinging from the heel yesterday and chalked up seven home runs, including one which enabled the Hartford Laurels to maintain a leading margin of three and a half games in the standings.

Stan Wentzel connected with one in the seventh and last inning of the nightcap with Elmira to give the Laurels a 6-4 victory. The Pioneers took the opener, 3-1.

The Wilkes-Barre Barons came from behind to win two from Utica, 6-5 and 5-4, and Binghamton swept a pair from Scranton, 5-3 and 7-4. Albany defeated Williamsport, 12-1, after losing 15-6.

Bob Brady also hit a homer for Hartford, while teammate Jim Francolini missed being credited with a circuit clout when he failed to touch first after an over-the-fence clout.

Pardon and Ruskowski homered for Wilkes-Barre in the first game.

ROCKS GAIN ON HAGERSTOWN

(By The Associated Press)

The Wilmington Blue Rocks moved up within a game of league-leading Hagerstown after taking a doubleheader from the Owls last night.

The Blue Rocks, unleashing a sudden spurt of power which carried them well up the league, blasted out an 18 to 2 victory in the opener, and then spurred ahead to win the nightcap 13 to 1. The Rocks bunched 22 hits to win the opener. Allentown and York split even, the Cardinals taking the first game 12 to 7 from York, and the White Roses coming back in the second half to win 11 to 8 in seven-innings. The Allentown victory was the sixth straight win for Pitcher Pete Mazza.

Red Roses Win

In the nightcap Norm Shipe went the full route for York, but weakened in the final inning when the Cardinals scored four times on homers by George Davis and Johnny Cappa. Bill Homan homered for York in each game, while Ollie Vanek chalked up one for Allentown in the first game with two aboard.

The Lancaster Red Roses swept both ends of a double bill against Trenton's Packers, 6 to 2 and 12 to 8. Jack Schmidt held the packers to four hits in the seven-inning opener.

A batting spurt for the Red Roses climaxed the nightcap as they walloped Trenton's Stan Zlotnick for two runs and then added five more off his ninth-inning successor, Red Kalsier.

Predict Nelson Will Override Military

Washington, July 10 (AP)—Chairman Donald M. Nelson's close colleagues in the War Production board predict he will override military objections and sign into effect his orders permitting limited civilian goods production.

They say, moreover, Nelson will not "water down" or compromise the announced program, which would let industry start preparations for reconversion and, while the war continues, devote the men, machines and material not needed for munitions to the manufacture of consumer goods.
